Royalty And Peasants Pay Final Tribute To King

HERO OF ALL BELGIUM IS LAID TO REST

Body Placed in Crypt With Those of Two Former Rulers; Long Procession CROWN KING FRIDAY

Queen Elizabeth, Suffering With Lumbago, is Barely Able to Walk to Car

BRUSSELS, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Belgium, in deepest sorrow, paid final tribute today to its hero king.

At the sharp note of a bugle, there started from the royal palace the funeral procession for Albert I, warrior, statesman, and citizen.

The body, on a flag draped gun caisson, was taken to St. Gudule's cathedral for the funeral service, to go thence to Laeken, four miles away, for burial in the family vault.

Princes, peasants, statesmen, and soldiers were in the long procession with the members of the royal family. Queen Elizabeth, ill of lumbago, and heartbroken, was scarcely able to walk to her carriage.

It was just after 10 o'clock when the bugle note stiffened to attention the throngs massed about the royal square fronting the palace.

Standards fluttered. Marshals and admirals in brilliant uniforms, picked troops of Belgian and Allied armies, came to attention. Horses curvetted. In a moment there was stillness again.

Then an escort of blue uniformed mounted policemen in white helmet led the cortege around a corner of the square and into a street flanking the palace.

The procession started through narrow ways to the medieval Gothic pile of St. Gudule's.

Muffled drums started the sepulchral beat of the slow march.

First in the procession came crack Italian, British and French

SECRETARY OF WAR DERN IN WASHINGTON ADDRESS PLEADS FOR PEACE, NOT HUGE ARMY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—A return to the principles of George Washington was urged today by Secretary of War Dern.

Speaking at Memorial Continental hall under the auspices of a number of patriotic societies on the 202nd anniversary of Washington's birth, Dern cited Washington's advice, in his farewell address, in favor of "reasonable preparedness," but said this did not mean the United States should maintain "an overgrown military establishment."

"Conscription, or compulsory military service, despite physical and moral value of the training and discipline to the soldier, is repugnant to American ideals," Dern said. "A large standing army is likewise objectionable, not from the standpoint of cost alone, but also because of the danger that it might usurp the functions of the civil government."

"It is because of this national sentiment that we have hardly any standing army at all, but only a skeleton framework upon which an army may be built in time of emergency. In numbers we rank with Greece and Portugal. As a great nation, how could we better show the world that we have no aggressive intentions?"

"As one who has never favored an overgrown military establishment on account of its potential dangers, I am happy to assure my fellow citizens that in the American army this danger is remote indeed."

In appealing for a return to the principles of liberty for which

ARMY AIR MAIL PILOT KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES IN STORM

Flier Fails In Attempt To Bail Out

One Other Lieutenant is Forced Down by Fog and Haze and Escapes

DESLER, O., Feb. 22.—(UP)—An army plane, carrying mail from Chicago to Toledo, crashed near here today. The pilot, tentatively identified as Lieut. Durward Lowry, Milwaukee, Wis., was killed.

It was the first fatality in the airmail service since the army took over the task of flying the mail last Monday.

The pilot, evidently lost in a snowstorm which swirled over northern Ohio, circled over the farm of Charles G. Thurston three times. The roof of the motor house, the farmer, who ran out of his house just in time to see the plane crash into the woods with a terrific detonation.

Thurston ran to the wreckage and found the body of the pilot thrown clear of the fuselage. The plane was so demolished that he could not make out its identification numbers.

It was evident, Thurston said, that the pilot attempted to save himself at the last minute by "bailing out," but had stayed too long with his ship. His army parachute was partially out of its case, but was entangled in the wreckage.

The single-seater observation plane, carrying 353 pounds of mail, had left Chicago at 3 a. m. bound for Toledo and Cleveland. It was far off its course when the crash occurred.

Lieut. Frank Tollenstein was forced down by fog and haze in a small clearing near Haydenville, Pa., but was uninjured.

All planes at Memphis were grounded by the weather. The west bound Cleveland plane was halted at Louisville. At Newark airport center of the storm area, all schedules were being maintained with the exception of the Boston runs.

Lieut. Macauley based his opinion on a telephone conversation he had with officials at Washington.

"Plans have been completed to bring the CWA program to an end by May 1 so that a substitute which will provide a more comprehensive program may be placed in operation," the state administrator said after the telephone call.

"This needy are not going to be abandoned by the administration, although previous announcements concerning the demoralization of the CWA had not indicated that another program was in contemplation nor will those who lose their CWA jobs be forced to accept public relief for longer than a very short period."

The military atmosphere and color of the ball will be heightened through the appearance of many past and present officers in uniform and the personnel of the drum and bugle corps of Santa Ana American Legion post 131. Charles Swanner, prominent Legionnaire of Orange county and commander of the American Legion in Santa Ana, will be master of ceremonies and Major M. B. Wellington, who served under the Major-General Winn, will introduce the honor guest.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Hopes to refloat the oil tanker Swift Eagle held its crew aboard ship today as it lay aground in Viscaino bay, 499 miles south of here, according to MacKay Radio advice.

The steamer Santa Catalina was standing by with an offer of assistance but officers of the tanker said they were hopeful high tide would come to their rescue. The vessel was being pounded heavily by the seas but there was no immediate danger, radio advice said.

The tanker carries a crew of 32 and is registered under the ownership of the Boat Owning and Operating Co. of Wilmington, Del. It is engaged in inter-coastal shipping.

AMENDMENT IS PROPOSED FOR VETERANS' AID

Compromise Offered by Administration to Patch Up Party Line

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Administration lines in the senate, beaten back under the successful assault of those seeking full restoration of government pay cuts, were reformed today to resist advocates of greatly increased benefits to war veterans.

The democratic leadership, after conferences with President Roosevelt, has offered a compromise on the veterans' issue which would return 29,000 presumptive disability cases to the pension rolls.

President Sacasa Asks Powers to Establish Order; Child Was Among Dead

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(UP)—A censorship has been established in Nicaragua, the Managua office of the All America Cable Co. advised its New York headquarters today.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Gen. Augustino Sandino, famous Nicaraguan rebel and foe of United States occupation, was shot and killed last night by national guardsmen, it was announced today.

Generals Estrada and Umanzor were killed with Sandino. His brother, Socrates Sandino, Colonel Juan Forette and Santos Lopez and a child of ten were killed when guardsmen attacked the home of Minister of Agriculture Sofonias Salvierra.

President Juan B. Sacasa publicly denounced the killings as acts of lawlessness and asked congress for the necessary powers to establish order.

Don Gregorio Sandino, father of the dead general, and Minister Salvierra were with Sandino and his two aides when they were shot and taken prisoner by the guardsmen, but later were released.

Death is ironic
The death of Sandino at the hands of the national guard was ironic, for he had made peace with the government and the guard only a year ago after a seven-year struggle against both, culminating in the withdrawal of the United States Marines last January.

His death ends the insurgent career of a petty chieftain who, by a mixture of circumstances, was raised from obscurity to international fame. Although labeled a "bandit and assassin" by the United States government, he was, at least for some years, a symbol of patriotism to thousands of Latin-Americans.

The trial was in adjournment until Friday morning, when the first state witness, Sergeant Arthur R. March, a policeman, will be recalled to tell of finding the body of the slain girl on the operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home last Nov. 31.

BULLY BEEF CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL MEET

STILLWATER, Minn., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Charles A. Lockwood, the 92-year-old survivor of the famous Last Man's club of Civil War veterans, made another pilgrimage to the birth in the ceremonies of a similar club of World War veterans.

Despite his age and enfeebled condition, Lockwood came to Stillwater from Chamberlain, S. D., to be guest of honor at the annual meeting of the Bully Beef club, which was patterned after the Last Man's club.

Instead of the bottle of burgundy wine, in which Lockwood drank a final toast to departed comrades several years ago, the comparatively new last man's club has a bottled-scarred can of bully beef as its symbol. The last two survivors of this club will open the can of beef for a final repast.

DAUGHTER OF KING MOURNS AT PALACE

ROME, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Princess Marie Jose, daughter of King Albert and wife of Crown Prince Humbert, mourned alone for her father today at a private ceremony at the royal chapel in the Quirinal palace.

Feeling that the princess would like to be alone, the king and queen arranged the service. They, with other members of the royal family, attended a memorial service at the royal church at Sudario.

Two other services were held for the king here. Thirteen cardinals attended one at the Church of Jesus. Premier Benito Mussolini, cabinet ministers and diplomats attended a service at the Basilica of St. Mary of the Angels.

PLUCKY NAVY PILOT SAVES HIS MATES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 22.—(UP)—A plucky navy pilot who swam more than half a mile to shore through the choppy sea off the Southern California coast was credited today with effecting the speedy rescue of three navy aviators and their crews after they were forced down at sea last night.

The planes were flying from San Clemente island to San Pedro when their fuel supply ran out and they were forced down in a light fog. Volunteering for the task, Ensign Victory H. Soucek peeled off his outer garments and plunged into the waters. A strong swimmer, he encountered little difficulty reaching shore and notifying navy authorities.

CLARA PHILLIPS TO WAIT THREE MONTHS

TEHACHAPI, Cal., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Louise Peete and Clara Phillips, both convicted in sensational Southern California murders, must wait three months at least before their applications for parole come before the state board of prison directors.

The postponement was taken as the board studied 56 applications in an all day meeting that lasted until late last night.

The board ordered Anna Hammond, sentenced June 11, 1917, from Fresno, to remain in prison until June 11, 1937. She is serving a sentence for murder.

SWEDISH PRINCE TO RENOUNCE RIGHTS

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Prince Sigvard of Sweden was quoted in an interview in the Daily Express today as expressing hope that his family will not disown him even if he does forfeit his royal rights by marrying a commoner.

"Even if I renounce my royal rights through marriage," he said, "I am still a loving son and grandson, and hope to remain friends with my father and the king."

Speaking to his fiancée, he said: "I will be glad when we are married and are forgotten. Then you can return to the films and you, darling, can train to become a star."

"I don't know that I want to be a star," she replied. "I would just as soon be only your wife."

at the post office department to effect reductions in airline expenses.

"Is there any difference between a conference called by a Democrat and one called by a Republican?" he asked.

"I think not," Brown replied. "Recalling Parley's letter to the committee in which the present postmaster general gave as one of his reasons for cancelling all domestic contracts the allegation that a 'conspiracy' had been entered into at the 1930 meeting, Austin asked:

"You wouldn't charge that Mr. Parley's recent transaction was a conspiracy?"

"I wouldn't charge any transaction with 'conspiracy' unless I had absolute proof of it," Brown said.

Black, skipping back and forth between questions about Brown's personal financial dealings and ocean and airmail matters, earlier developed that Former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon had written Brown "a perfunctory letter" urging award of a contract to the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries, Inc.

Brown said he also received letters on the subject from R. K. and W. L. Mellon, directors of the company.

"Someone stirred up all the directors," he said, "to bombard me."

Washington fought, Dern said this was the brand of liberty that means equal opportunity for all.

"Is it enough for the government to guarantee that the citizen shall not be killed, or sold into slavery, or held up by robbers?" Dern asked.

"What about the man who is willing, able and anxious to work but cannot find a job, and whose wife and children are dying of starvation, cold and exposure? Has he no rights except the assurance that he is safe from being killed? Does not the right to life imply the right to a decent, satisfactory life rather than a mere, miserable existence?"

"What about the producer who, through no fault of his own, cannot get enough for his product to enable him to live the kind of life that he is entitled to live? Is the right to the pursuit of happiness not a ghastly delusion for him?"

Touching on the realm of international relations, Dern said war or peace is made by public opinion, rather than by rules of the nations. The public opinion, he said, is moulded largely by the newspapers, either through the manner in which they report the news or through their editorial columns.

"If a newspaper plays up the inflammatory utterances of some fanatic, and plays down what is said by a thoughtful, sober-minded student of world problems, it takes its place in the ranks of the war-makers," Dern said.

"And so I call upon the owners and editors of newspapers, not only of the United States but of the whole world, to those which they will be war-makers or peace-makers."

battalions in dress uniforms, then blue jacketed marines and blue uniformed aviation corps men.

Most impressive was a detachment of khaki Belgian artillery, with lumbering green cannons and four detachments of the indomitable Belgian infantry which impeded the German invasion in 1914.

Long Procession

The procession included delegations of decorated Colonial troops. Men and women who were kept political prisoners during the long German occupation, and long ranks of marching women, mothers and widows of men killed in the war.

Following them came bearers of regimental standards, bearing on their ribbons such names as Yser, Walvre, Meuse, Liege and Namur, once blazoned through the world as battlefields.

A corps of priests, army chaplains, most of them bearing decorations for bravery in the field, completed the first part of the dead king's escort. There was a break in the line. For a few tense moments the crowd waited. Then the funeral caisson came into view. Above a distant funeral march, the sobs of women were heard plainly, children were lifted into the air to see the king's casket.

Behind the caisson, rideless, was the king's bay horse, led by a soldier. Tall grenadiers in khaki flanked the funeral car. About it also were the honorary pall bearers, including the presidents of the senate and chamber, the premier, the ministers of justice and interior, and Lieut. General Liebig, and de Ceuninck, was borne and wearers of the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold.

Six big black horses drew the caisson.

Prince Marches Behind it marched Crown Prince Leopold, who will be made Leopold III tomorrow. Erect and youthful looking, he wore the uniform of a lieutenant general to which rank he was promoted after the king's death.

It took more than an hour for the procession to pass.

At the cathedral, the solemn high requiem mass was celebrated, with its aweing cadences.

The Cardinal Archbishop of Malines chanted the absolution. The immense nave was hung with black and silver. There was one spot of blazing color, around the coffin where the colors of allied flags were brought out by the soft light of scores of candles. The lights were caught by the medals and glittering sabre scabbards of brilliantly uniformed officers.

A choir of Malines Cathedral sang the choruses at the mass. There was absolute silence as the cardinal gave absolution. The gray light from the high cathedral windows seemed dulled by the splendor of the uniforms of the kings and princes and officers.

The sudden tinkle of a silver bell started the band of the British Grenadier Guards, sent for the funeral, into the Brancome, the Belgian national anthem, played in softly muted tones. The service ended, the congregation filed out slowly and the procession started along the four-mile route to the king's tomb at Laeken.

Royalties and officials went by automobile.

At Notre Dame church at Laeken, there occurred the last public tribute to the king. At the door, the king and prince and others specially invited filed past the king's coffin, still on the gun carriage, to pay final honor.

The monarchs and princes left. Ambassadors and other diplomats hurried off to luncheon and duty. The gun caisson wheeled about, the casket was lifted off and carried into the church.

pending a decision on individual cases by the board of veterans' appeals.

This amendment, offered by Sen. James F. Byrnes, Dem., S. C., on behalf of the administration, meets in part the proposed American Legion program as presented by Sen. David A. Reed, Rep., Pa.

The issue lies largely between these two amendments, with other amendments concerning Spanish war veterans and various special situations to be decided as separate proposals.

The Reed amendment contains the Legion's four-point program: 1. Putting the burden of proof in disability cases on the government.

2. Restoration of $100 per month for service connected total disability.

3. Hospitalization of needy veterans.

4. Pensions to widows of World war veterans.

It appeared probable that the McCarran amendment, providing for full restoration of the government's 15 per cent pay cut, would not be written into the law as finally enacted. It may be knocked out either in conference or a presidential veto.

The administration plan is for immediate restoration of one-third of the pay-cut, restoration of another third on July 1 and complete restoration after that at the president's discretion.

The amendment, estimated to represent an additional expense to the government of $189,000,000, was approved, 41 to 40. Thirteen Democrats bolted their leadership to support the McCarran amendment. Most of these votes were given in the house.

Bonus advocates in the house were faced with a major threat meantime when it became known that Democratic leaders are considering a parliamentary subterfuge which would prevent a vote on the Patman $2,400,000,000 bonus bill March 12.

Consideration was being given to a maneuver which would void the signing of the bonus petition through having the ways and means committee report out the Patman measure which has been gathering dust in the committee since early in the extra session.

Stripped of its technicalities such action by the committee would mean that the bonus bloc would have to file another petition and then only after the rules committee had been given 30 days in which to report out a rule. The maneuver at least would delay for six weeks after March 12, a bonus bill vote in the house.

Revolution Tools Topic Of Address

"There are two kinds of tools for building the future, the bloody revolution and the peaceful revolution," Mrs. Jennie Tessmann said last night in addressing the Church Night assembly at First Methodist church. She was speaking on "Tools for Building the Future" from her series "Facing a New Era."

In her talk Mrs. Tessmann listed tools that are being forged for use in the peaceful revolution as education, unemployment insurance and graduated income tax.

"The world," she said, "has progressed more through peaceful revolutions, such as commercial, industrial, and scientific revolutions. The only way we can succeed in building the future with these tools is to always keep before us human values."

SANDINO SHOT DOWN WITH SIX OTHER PERSONS

resisted for years the combined efforts of the United States marines and the national guard to capture him.

With his well-armed guerrilla bands, he made periodic attacks on marines detachments, swooping down in surprise raids, and in turn being surprised in swift jungle skirmishes which were never decisive.

Hundreds Killed

Hundreds of lives were lost in the struggle. Marine casualties totaled 20 officers and 115 men killed in action or died of wounds or in accidents, and 13 officers and 53 men wounded.

In February of last year, after the marines had been withdrawn, Sandino came to Managua by airplane from his mountain stronghold near San Rafael Del Norte, announcing he expected to become the right hand man of Saca.

Under the terms of a peace treaty signed at the presidential palace, 100 Sandino soldiers were to be taken into the Nicaraguan army for one year; two-thirds of all his arms were to be delivered to the government within 20 days, and the government agreed to maintain public works in Segovia province for one year.

Because of his enforced obscurity, the hero-worship of his followers, and the intense hatred of his opponents, the jungle warrior became almost a legend. Preposterous accounts of his heroism and cruelty were told by friends and foes. His real personality and deeds were obscured by a curtain of praise and vilification.

Sandino was born May 19, 1893, in Niquinohomo, a small village in the Nicaraguan department of Masaya, not far from Managua. His father, Gregorio Sandino, a mild-mannered, educated man, the village primary school and later sent him to the Granada Eastern Institute.

He once visited the United States, including New York, where he probably worked at his trade as a mechanic. His military career began in 1925, when he returned home and joined in the Chamorro revolt under Saca.

In appearance he was small and slender, little more than five feet in height. Straight, black hair surmounted a full forehead. In the field he affected a semi-military uniform, a red and black silk handkerchief around his neck and a wide-brimmed hat.

ings. He noted that although prices have declined tremendously in value, they have remained liquid throughout the depression. "Real estate, the other hand," he said, "became practically unsalable and at times it was impossible to find a buyer for mortgages or other forms of real estate investment. To the extent that this bill seeks to regulate exchanges to the point where it will destroy the free and open market for securities, the liquidity of the one form of investment that has remained liquid throughout the depression certainly will be impaired if not entirely destroyed."

As Whitney testified, Pecora announced his call loan inquiry. He said he was attempting to obtain testimony from the Cities Service Corporation, General Motors and Bethlehem Steel.

Pecora asserted surplus funds of large corporations were used for call loans to brokers who used the money in speculation on the New York stock exchange.

Faster Relief Now From Neuritis

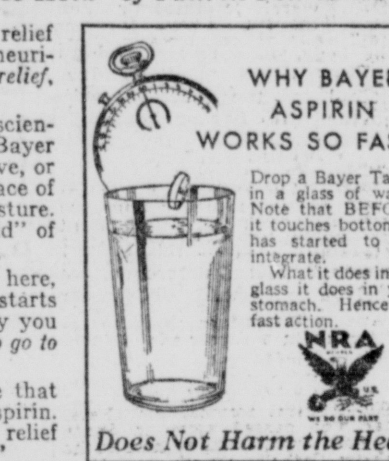

Real Bayer Aspirin "Takes Hold" of Pain in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "Bayer Aspirin."

ARMAMENT AND BARRIERS MAY CAUSE NEW WAR

Armament races among nations, injustices of the Versailles Treaty, great social and economic upheavals over the world, and the tendency of nations to become strongly nationalistic, causing trade barriers to be raised, has created a tangled situation in the world which may lead to war, Dr. Ernest J. Jaqua, president of Scripps college, told members of the Kiwanis club and a large number of guests yesterday afternoon in James' cafe.

The speaker, who spent considerable time in Europe studying the situation and who heard discussions at the Geneva peace conference, was introduced by O. H. Barr, program chairman of the day.

Pointing out that people today are living in a time when every fundamental principle of government and social and economic life is being questioned, the speaker traced events leading up to the present situation. He placed the blame for conditions on the World war, war debts and the fact that there was no great economic leadership following the disastrous war.

Hopeful Signs
Hopeful signs in the situation are that smaller nations are growing in power in the League of Nations, he said, and that people today are thinking as never before about what a war at this time would mean to civilization. "We have not learned how to disarm," he declared. "We know how to increase armament but we do not know how to decrease it. Nations have almost tripled their expenditures on armament since the war."

Similar influences which may make war possible are the rapid increase in armaments, increased economic and political nationalism and unhappiness caused by terms of the Versailles treaty, which forced Germany to acknowledge full blame for the war and imposed other unjust conditions, he said.

To prevent war, the League of Nations must be held together, he said, because the world is in a place now where this must be done or war will result.

The general attitude toward peace in the world today is most fortunate in these heated times, the speaker declared. "It is not likely that we will have war soon," he said. "I don't think Germany is in a position to go to war because most nations today could whip her. Italy can't go to war without England's consent, which is impossible. I don't think there is danger of war in the Austrian situation or any danger soon in the Russian-Japanese situation."

Tribute to Roosevelt
"We are not likely to go to war, except for Roosevelt's navy policy," Dr. Jaqua declared. Roosevelt is the most far-sighted man who has been president since Lincoln, and perhaps Washington.

Favorable signs are that 300 organizations at Geneva are working for peace and that the League of Nations is in a stronger position now than it ever has been. The United States and Russia are being drawn closer to the League as a result of the withdrawal of other nations, he claimed, and the League is gaining power by precedent and rulings.

"Nations must learn to maintain their individualism and at the same time give generous thought to the problems of the entire world for the service of the world," he concluded.

Honoring Washington's birthday, Harry Westover, and member of the club, gave a short talk on Washington in which he said his idea of the most interesting phase of Washington's character was that he was willing to lose his riches, home, power and even his life in furtherance of a cause he believed to be right.

Art Cannon, club pianist, played a medley of national airs in keeping with the spirit of the program. Harry E. Owings introduced F. U. Lawrence, manager of Nichols Dollar store, as a new member of the club.

START ACTIVE CAMPAIGN FOR FATHER O'SULLIVAN MEMORIAL FUND AT CAPISTRANO MISSION

A campaign to raise a fund of $100,000 to restore and preserve the old Mission San Juan Capistrano is actively under way, with contributions being received from various parts of California.

MISSION HEAD

The Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson, present pastor of the Mission San Juan Capistrano, below, who initiated the move to carry on the work of the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. St. John O'Sullivan.

The undertaking is planned as a memorial to the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. St. John O'Sullivan, with dedication of a memorial tablet set for July 22, the first anniversary of the beloved padre's death. Leading dignitaries of the Catholic church will be present for this occasion and it is planned to burn the mortgage on the mission. The money being raised will be utilized in preserving the older buildings, restoring other structures to former strength, paying off debts on the mission school, extending the wall to entirely enclose the 10-acre tract and erecting a suitable tomb in the mission burial grounds for the remains of the late priest. A simple bronze tablet will mark his final resting place.

The plan was initiated by the Rev. Arthur J. Hutchinson, present pastor, who has determined to complete the work on which the Rt. Rev. Msgr. O'Sullivan labored for 23 years. It has the approval of the Most Rev. J. J. Cantwell, bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego.

MANLEY TELLS LEISURE TIME VALUE OF Y. M.

How Y. M. C. A.'s and other social and educational institutions are meeting the problem of taking care of spare time of persons caused through unemployment and shortening of working hours was explained by John Manley, secretary of the national council of the Y. M. C. A. at a meeting of officers, directors and secretaries of Y. M. C. A.'s in Santa Ana, Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange, yesterday in the Doris-Kathryn Tea shop, Santa Ana.

Manley, who was introduced by Fred M. Hansen, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., told how social and educational institutions have been working during the depression years to give people an opportunity to spend their time profitably. These institutions, he said, have been of great help, but there still is much to be done.

Conditions are improving in service offered along that line, he said. No Y. M. C. A.'s in America have been closed during the depression, he declared, except some in industrial centers where the population has shifted, although associations have suffered.

State Secretary Hansen spoke briefly on association matters. J. F. Burke presided at the meeting.

OFFICERS OF SURPLUS POOL PLANNING BODY OF CREAMERIES ARE REELECTED IS CONDEMNED

Officers of the Orange county planning commission were reelected at an annual meeting held yesterday in the commission offices in the courthouse annex. Dr. W. L. Bigham, of Anaheim, was reelected chairman and Jules W. Marcell, Santa Ana, was reelected secretary.

Other commissioners are L. W. Briggs, of Balboa; Herb Gray, of Huntington Beach; Hugh T. Thompson, of Orange, and Oliver Haisell, of Santa Ana. Ex-officio commissioners are Nat H. Neff, county highway superintendent; W. K. Hillyard, county surveyor, and S. B. Kaufman, district attorney.

Supervisor W. C. Jerome was present at the session, and took part in the discussion in regard to a newly proposed plan to designate the planning commission as an Orange county forest board. This plan was suggested in a monthly report given the commission by Deming Tilton, planning consultant, who pointed out that the 1933 legislature amended the Forestry Board act to provide that a county in which a forestry board has not been created but which had a planning commission could designate the latter commission as a forestry board.

Under the old Forestry Board act, all such boards wherever established in counties, were given authority only over trees on public highways, wild flowers and natural vegetation and the care and development of county parks, as well as responsibility for the protection of the county from fires.

Under the amendment to the Forestry Board act by which the planning commission may be made the forestry board, these same powers and duties except those relating to fire protection are given the planning commission, the report stated. Thus it is possible for Orange county, if it so desires, to have its planning commission vested with more direct authority over the trees, shrubs, wild flowers and natural landscapes of the county, the consultant said. By adoption of a resolution, the board of supervisors can make the commission the forestry board.

Tilton reported regarding county zoning and completion of a master plan and was authorized by the

In a letter signed by Mrs. Roy Corry as president and Ray Wilkins as secretary the Orange County Unit of the Natural Milk Producers of California, Inc. yesterday complimented Secretary Wallace of the federal Department of Agriculture in his "exhibition of departmental statesmanship of agriculture."

The letter also protested the "surplus pool" for creameries that is included in the A. A. marketing agreement.

The letter informed Wallace that the Natural Milk Producers are preparing a request to be sent Senators Patrick McCarran of Nevada and Hiram Johnson of California urging them to launch a "very persistent senatorial investigation of the 'milk trust' and also requesting Congressman Sam Collins to cooperate in the probe. Wallace was asked if his department would cooperate and supply the investigators with necessary data.

The letter also demanded that auditors for the Department of Agriculture examine the books of the Los Angeles "surplus pool" to ascertain how the Milk Producers, Inc., manage the business. Referring to the pool the letter said, in part:

"We have voluntarily curtailed production in line with decreased consumption but we expect the creameries to do the same; when they maintain surplus in the face of facts, we resent the idea of being forced to subsidize a 'Surplus Pool' for the creamery, or the Cooperative, the latter usually a big distributor camouflaged in overall. This Los Angeles surplus plan is, from our viewpoint, the most viciously dishonest scheme that was slipped over and incorporated into any phase of the A. A. marketing agreements."

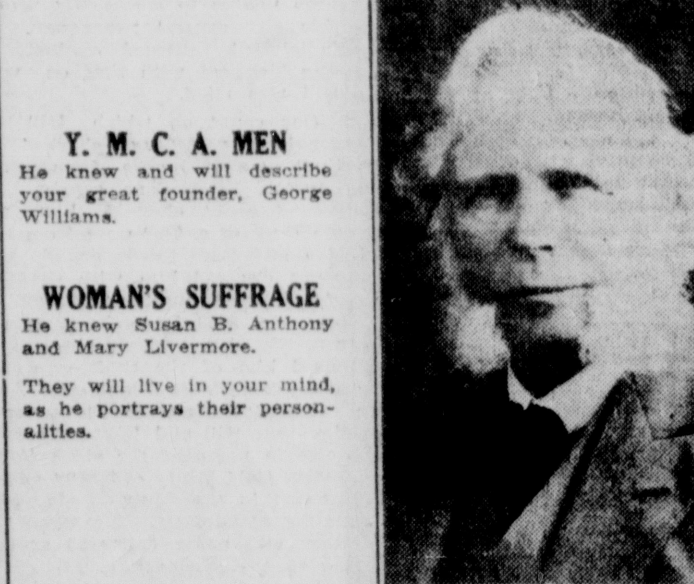

Commissioner Hillyard reported on the advisability of contacting the United States Geographical Survey regarding a proposed photo-map of Orange county.

Neff Explains Outside Work By Road Department

Referring to the recent grand jury report in which it was stated that the county highway department does work for outside parties for which it is reimbursed, County Highway Superintendent Nat Neff today explained that the work is done only in connection with road work.

Neff said that the only work done for outside parties is construction of driveways along a highway that is under construction. When requests for such work is made a deposit is required to cover estimated cost of the job before the work is started. Very little of this work is being done by the department, Neff said, and only upon direct request and when crews are working on the highway from which the drive will open.

Continued light showers of rain throughout the county during the past 24 hours raised hopes of Orange county agriculturalists today for more and heavier rains tonight and tomorrow, which would prove of great benefit to agriculture.

Santa Ana received .02 inches of rain in the 24-hour period, boosting the total for the season to 7.73 inches as compared with 8.62 at this same time last year.

Orange received most precipitation during the period, a total of 10 inches falling in that community. Orange has received more rain than any other section of the county, boasting a total of 11.44 inches for the season as compared with 10.11 at the same time last season.

The rains have been beneficial to agriculturalists of the county, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

PYTHIANS HOLD DISTRICT MEET IN SANTA ANA

With more than 150 persons present, a district convention of Knights of Pythias lodges in this section was held last night at the Santa Ana K. of P. hall with Chancellor Commander Edward W. Cochens acting as host for the Santa Ana lodge.

The program was opened with the Pythian flag ceremony in a drill by the Sunshine Girls of Tustin, a junior branch of the Pythian Sisters.

Assemblyman James B. Utt, member of the Tustin lodge, acted as master of ceremonies at the convention session which also observed the seventieth anniversary of the Pythian celebration of Bible Week.

Following group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," W. M. Burke gave an address on the subject, "Seventy Years of Pythian Fraternity." Burke is a member of the Santa Ana lodge.

Sam Hill, former Santa Ana grocer, was released from custody last night under $5000 bond pending hearing on his application for probation March 2. Hill was found guilty by a jury yesterday afternoon on eight counts of a grand jury indictment accusing him of grand theft and violation of the State Corporate Securities act.

The jury reached a verdict within an hour after retiring to the jury room but could not report for approximately two hours as Superior Judge H. G. Ames who had presided during the trial was at the county hospital conducting sanity hearings.

Hill, through his attorney Franklin West, filed application for probation following return of the verdict. Bail was set at $5000 by Judge Ames and the former grocer was remanded to the custody of the sheriff. He posted the bond and was released from custody last night.

Hill was indicted several weeks ago by the 1933-34 grand jury along with W. L. Nix also involved in the deals with Hill. Superior Judge Ames issued bench warrants for both men but authorities have been unable to locate Nix who left this city several years ago. The indictment returned against Nix was identical with that on which Hill was tried.

One count on which Hill was convicted yesterday charged the theft of a $600 note from Bruno Loyotty, El Modena rancher. The second count charged him with the theft of a $500 note from Loyotty and the third grand theft count charged him with the theft of two notes, one for $500 and the other for $450 from the same person. The fourth theft charge accused him of the theft of a $500 note from F. S. Donaldson.

It was charged in the prosecution that Hill and Nix secured the notes in payment for stock in the Beatty Gold Mines company and an interest in the July Lode Mine claims at Beatty, Nevada. The stock was never delivered according to the prosecution.

Counts five, seven and eight in the indictment accused Hill of violating the Corporate Securities act by selling an interest in the July Lode claims. The sixth count charged the same offense through the sale of 5000 shares of stock in Beatty Gold Mines company. According to testimony given during the trial, permits had never been issued by the state corporation commissioner to sell shares in either company.

S. A. Merchants Feature New Styles

ALL LINES OF APPAREL TO BE ON EXHIBITION

Apparel merchants of Santa Ana joined today to show residents of Santa Ana and the trading area just what the well-dressed man and woman will wear this spring, planning to accomplish this with a series of individual fashion and style shows tomorrow and Saturday, ushering in the spring and summer season.

While some merchants planned special events for the Spring Fashion Show, most merchants planned to have special showings in their windows for the event which, sponsored by the Santa Ana Merchants association, will be launched tomorrow night.

Windows will be available for inspection from 7 until 9 o'clock tomorrow night, while the fashion and style show will continue throughout Saturday and Sunday night.

According to A. Cavalli, manager of the Merchants association, Orry Kelly, one of the best known fashion designers and stylists of Hollywood and New York, has promised to cooperate with local merchants and will arrange to visit Santa Ana during the Fashion Show, when he will be welcomed by merchants of the city.

Living models will display the latest creations in women's wear at the Bell Dry Goods store. Every type of garment will be modeled, including evening dresses, afternoon dresses, suits, knitted wear, blouses, etc. J. H. Bell, proprietor, as soon as plans for the show were announced, contacted eastern connections as well as coast manufacturers so that the show might be worth coming miles to see. The store will feature extraordinary sports attire shown on Santa Ana models.

Smart Suits

Men will get a "break" this season in having a chance at the smartest suits in many years, according to Hugh J. Lowe, Santa Ana clothier. Along with those good-looking sport black coats, come the soft, rich, luxurious fabrics in Shetlands, Harris Tweeds and Flannels. The many new shades of stain brown, platinum gray, Concord blue and others, give every man a chance to select the shade he likes best, he pointed out. Hats, too, are different, with many mixtures of smaller brims and higher crowns with a careless crease to add smartness. Shirts have gone slender. They're out without all that superfluous goods at the waist. All these new things will be displayed by Hugh J. Lowe at the style event.

New swaggar suits for women in pastels and tweeds will be featured by the Smart Shop, S. R. Sender, proprietor, declared, in addition to a complete line of new things of all kinds for women. New types of coats for spring, dresses for afternoon, street or evening wear, from wash dress to formal party dress, will be shown. Windows will be redecorated with samples of the new spring merchandise received especially for the occasion. Everything a woman wears except shoes can be found at the Smart Shop, including novelty numbers.

The theme of the J. C. Penney company store for the style event will be "Fashions for 1934," according to Manager F. A. Jones. Through the cooperation and courtesy of the Broadway theater, the store expects to have show windows and interior in keeping with the new Warner Brothers' First National picture, "Fashion Follies of 1934," starting Sunday at the local theater and starring William Powell, Bette Davis, Verne Treadwell, Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert and others, in which the newest fashions and numbers created and directed by Busby Berkeley will be seen.

Some of the gown worn by the actresses in the production will be on display if the store is able to procure them, to have a showing that is different.

In spite of higher production costs due to NRA codes and advances in leather prices, more efficient methods of manufacture has enabled the Enna Jettick shoe store to give customers more in style and quality than ever before, Manager Ed Busch declared, in stating that shipments from the Enna Jettick factory will demonstrate this. Shoe prices are no higher than a year ago, he said, and yet better styles and finer shoes are being shown. White will be more popular than ever, he declared, both for sport and dress wear, including pigskin, nubuck and manduraka which will be popular leathers in this shade. In addition to regular lines of arch support shoes, the store will show attractively styled dress shoes.

Hill and Carden, men's clothiers, are featuring the Tyrolean felt hat for spring, a new swaggar hat for men according to George Mayer. In suit styles, he said, the bi-swing back has gained unprecedented popularity, the ease and comfort as well as its good looks recommending it to almost anyone. Smart new checks and plaids are brightening the outlook, and this spring will be a season of colorful, bright and cheerful patterns, he declared. Mixed suits and ensemble styles are in the offing, he said.

Individual Styles Especially for the style show, Ronshold's and El Patio Shop for women, misses and girls, seven to fourteen, has assembled a most comprehensive collection of individual styles, fashion approved fabrics, new colors and combinations ornamented by unique trimmings and supported by distinctive line, saucy sleeves and wind-blown skirts, F. E. J. Ronshold, proprietor, declared. Cottons and linens are destined to do much plot-thickening and cotton formal add spice to the situation, he said. The balance of the story can be found by seeing the displays at the store in the Santora building, he concluded.

A complete line of new spring merchandise has been obtained by Vandermast's clothing store for men, Carl Stein declared, with the result that the latest in sweaters, trousers, hats, shirts and boys' wear will be on display for the style show. Indications point to tremendous popularity for soft-constructed suits with natural shoulders. This type garment is being featured by Vandermast's in Harris Tweeds, Shetlands and other soft and rugged materials, some with the belted bi-swing backs, patch pockets and leather buttons. Overplaids, checks and greys are popular. The store also will feature the new Tyrolean hat, new Oxford shirts, light weight wool ties, fitted shirts, socks, etc. The boy's department at the store is being enlarged.

Parade of Models Montgomery Ward and Company store is planning to participate in the style show in a big way, according to Manager E. L. Lucas. The corner window at Fourth and Main streets will be used for staging the show. Models will enter on the Main street and follow a run way to East Fourth street entrance. About 12 living models will display women's and misses' apparel. Infant and children's dresses, as well as men's and boys' clothing also will be modeled. Dresses made from materials sold at the store will be displayed. Two shows will be given daily, from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Friday and Saturday.

A new and original idea is displaying men's clothing will be carried out by Brooks' Clothing store, Manager M. T. Tatle announced. An elaborate and interesting picture painting of the South Sea Islands forms the background for the novel display. Palm trees in a natural setting harmonize with the green and yellow color scheme. Cut-outs of men's fashions for spring and 1934 feature the display of models in the windows.

According to fashion experts, there will be a decided swing on the part of men this spring to brown shoes. This style change is in line with the tendency of well-groomed men to get more color in their lives. Clothing and furnishings have had a marked influence in bringing about this increased demand for brown leathers.

Conventionality of dress which reached a point of ultra conservatism about a year ago, has since been scattered to the four winds by a new and easier freedom of fashion. The rapidity with which this change from stiff formality in men's apparel has given way to color and personality. The new cut, patterns and textures of suitings is pronounced. Comfort of dress is the keynote.

RANKIN'S PLANS SPECIAL EVENT FOR DISPLAY

An unique method of displaying goods for a washable wardrobe will be demonstrated at Rankin's Department store next week in an event which women are looking forward to and which will surprise even those who have already given serious thought to their requirements for spring and summer. It was announced today by store officials.

The event at Rankin's has one especially unique feature. The girls will model dresses of fabrics selected and made by them especially for this spring showing. Each girl will have an accurate account of the material used and pattern number, to assist any customer who may want that information.

Throughout the entire first floor and in every show window, new versions of spring cottons, rayons, and linens will be presented.

In connection with the event, the following statements were made today by store officials, who requested that readers watch The Register for a special announcement.

"Women who are familiar with style magazines will recognize these names and lines now available at Rankin's: Dumari Textiles—known for their exquisite prints in rayons and sheer fabrics under the 'Fairy-spun' trademark; Butterfield Fabrics—which offer nothing but the best in material and dye at moderate prices. Almost every homemaker is familiar with their 'Pueblo' prints; Arthur Beir & Company—whose 'A. B. C.' is known the Nation over as a standard of quality; Flugelman—always at the forefront of style with their 'Colorfast' label; N. Er-langer Blumgart & Co.—who made 'Everfast' the mark of dependability, fast to everything; Henry Glass & Co.—with their 'Pater Pan' mark of style, correctness; and many others of equal merit."

Whose Fault?

When Little Girls Show Temper

A quarrelsome child is a sick child, mothers! A bad bowel condition means bad behavior. And it doesn't help matters to give bilious boys and girls some powerful cathartic that upsets them for days. When you see a coated tongue, dull or yellowed eyes, or other signs of sluggishness, there's always a way to cleanse and sweeten that little system without violence; next day you have a happy, contented child. This common-sense treatment is explained on the right:

Good health and good behavior go hand in hand. With inner health, come smiling faces and sunny dispositions. And it's really so simple a matter to keep children's bowels regular. The only "medicine" most youngsters ever need to promote thorough bowel action is pure California Syrup of Figs. The senna in this fine, fruity laxative never weakens them, or takes away their appetite. But get real California Syrup of Figs; you can get it anywhere; it isn't expensive.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
— News Behind The News —

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

ROOTS
Nations may step on each other's toes and settle the matter with diplomatic bows, but when one nation steps on another's pocketbook they wheel out the guns.

Even the political eruption in Austria had hidden international ruses rooted in commerce and trade.

On the surface the fighting appeared to be entirely political. Fascists, Nazis, Socialists and Catholics died for what their orators believe to be great causes.

The blood of those patriots can also be measured in the marts of trade in good old coin of the realm of adjoining nations.

SEAPORTS
Control of the Central European markets and outlets to the sea were two of the main underlying fuses. Hitler wants them. So does Mussolini.

Both Austria and Czechoslovakia are using the Italian port of Trieste. That is the old Austrian port taken by Italy after the World war.

If Hitler gets his hands on Austria, that nation and Czechoslovakia will use the German ports of Bremen and Hamburg.

Otherwise there is a matter of Italian trade development through-out Central Europe. Mussolini has been trying to expand it. He can dominate the situation only as long as he can keep the Nazis out of Austria.

It is no wonder that he sent two Italian divisions recently to the Austria border.

WINNER
The half-pint chancellor Dollfuss lost his fight with the Socialists, even though his guns came off triumphantly. One more victory like that and he is through.

The Nazis were strengthened politically. While their two hated adversaries struggled in the streets, they sat by and polished their guns. Whatever damage Dollfuss and the Socialists did to each other left that much less for the Nazis to do when they take on the winner.

Our shrewd official observers believe the trouble has only started. Confidentially they think the Nazis are going to get control in Austria, sooner or later, and nothing can stop them.

GEESSE
The Nazis believe that also. That is why they are playing such a cagey game.

Hitler knows he would bring down on himself the condemnation of England, France and Italy if he should unleash the 15,000 Austrian Nazis just across the border in Germany and permit them to go into Vienna after Dollfuss. He will not attack. He believes all he has to do is wait, and Austria will come to him.

As one of the Hitler expressionists put it:

"If we hide our time, the Austrian goose will come flying into our mouths, well cooked and seasoned."

So you may see Dollfuss soon offer the first wing of the goose to Hitler by permitting the Nazis to have representation in his government.

If Hitler gets his teeth on one wing, it will not be long before he gets to the drumstick.

COTTON
Mr. Roosevelt heard those rumors about certain Southern Congressmen weakening toward the Bankhead cotton compulsion bill.

That is why he suddenly made up his mind to demand action on the legislation. His statement changed the whole outlook concerning the bill. Until then, Congressmen had half a notion to let it die on the vine. They saw the Administration blowing hot and cold on the measure. Now they will have to put it through, because Mr. Roosevelt left no doubt that he personally is hotly for it.

There have been some rumblings of complaint since he spoke, but his insistence means the bill will probably be passed.

STOCKS
There are many indications that the stock market regulation bill will be softened measurably and enacted by Congress before adjournment.

Chairman Fletcher of the Senate committee is beginning to say the bill is not considered sacred, that many protests have been received and that there is no reason why the bill should not be altered.

In the end, you probably will get a fairly good bill which will eliminate the worst speculative forces and result in a market protected for the public along the lines of the London Exchange.

HOURS
The Administration has been quietly looking into the possibilities of starting a drive for a 32-hour week under the NRA codes.

Those who are investigating the matter believe the Government should ask for 32 hours, with a view to compromising at 36. That would be one way to accelerate the private absorption of workers being dropped from the CWA.

The matter is yet to be decided.

NOTES
Hitler sent a copy of his latest Reichstag speech to every newsmen in Washington, direct from the government printing office in Berlin.

The correct spelling of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's name is "on" instead of "an."

PROSPECTUSES
American Waterworks has published a 58-page pamphlet covering details of its refunding bond issue in compliance with the Securities Act. The next trick is that the pamphlets aren't given away—they're sold for a dollar a copy. A large demand has developed from security dealers, insurance companies and others who want to study the Act in operation.

Wall Street comments that the company needn't sell its bonds at all if it can only sell 15,000,000 prospectuses. This in turn leads smart lads to ponder the possibility of marketing a cheap stock by selling its registration statement for a dollar or so and giving a share of stock as a bonus with each copy purchased. It might be a way to wriggle out of the liabilities of the Act.

It isn't all in jest. Funnier ideas than that have sometimes turned up in Wall Street practice.

AUSTRIA
New York insiders understand that the British government's real attitude toward Austria differs materially from the position it has taken in public.

The word is that Britain has privately assured Hitler she has made no commitments to either France or Italy. This amounts to an invitation to Hitler to do his stuff when he pleases without fear of British intervention. Experts predict this will hasten the

BOULDER DAM
TRIP TO START
NEXT MONDAY

More than 50 Orange county residents will join the auto caravan next Monday, February 26, to visit the Boulder Dam and see the tremendous construction works under way there at the present time. It was announced today by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, who has been delegated to the Farm Bureau to arrange details and organize the groups and individuals in Orange county who have expressed an interest and desire to go.

The round-trip to the dam will take two days for those who wish to make the trip in the minimum time. Those who desire may return more leisurely by way of Death Valley. A small group will return by way of the Metropolitan aqueduct. This group is limited on account of limited stop-over facilities at the aqueduct construction camp over night.

Plenty of hotel and auto camp facilities are available at Las Vegas and Boulder City for those going to the dam with the caravan. Any party interested in the visit to the dam should communicate with the farm advisor's office, court house annex, Santa Ana, as soon as possible, Wahlberg said.

Present plans are to leave Olive at 8 a. m. Monday, February 26, arriving at Las Vegas about 4 p. m. Overnight accommodations will be assigned through the Chamber of Commerce office, where the caravan will assemble upon arrival.

Tuesday, 7:30 a. m., the caravan will leave Las Vegas for Boulder City, the model city laid out by the government adjacent to the dam. Official guides will meet the caravan at 8:30 a. m.

AVOCADO MEN
MEET MARCH 16

The fifth annual Avocado Growers Institute will be held at the Placentia grammar school auditorium on March 16, according to A. R. Marshall, chairman of the Orange County Farm Bureau avocado department. The two counties of Orange and Los Angeles are cooperating this year in the event which has been held annually for the past five years. It is expected that over 400 avocado growers will attend the sessions, coming from all sections of Southern California.

Timely subjects pertaining to the culture and marketing of avocados will be featured on the program. Among the subjects scheduled are: "Pruning the Avocado," "Problems in Irrigation and Erosion," "An Analysis of Production Costs," "Controlling Stolen Fruit," "Value of the Avocado in the Diet," "Fertilization of Subtropical Fruits," "Latest Developments in the A. A. A.," "Marketability of Avocado Varieties," and "Overcoming the Alternating Bearing Habits of Avocados."

Judge F. D. Halm, head of the Farm Bureau avocado department in Los Angeles county, will preside at the afternoon session. Leroy Lyons, supervisor, in whose district the meeting is being held, has been invited to give the address of welcome.

UNION SERVICE
SPEAKER TALKS
ON ONE CHURCH

Speaking under the auspices of four co-operating churches, Dr. A. C. Gaebelein, of New York City, discussed the subject, "The Prospects of the Church and of Christendom," in Ebell clubhouse auditorium last night.

"We have accustomed ourselves to refer to denominational groups as churches," said Dr. Gaebelein in introducing his subject. "According to scripture there is only one church and that is made up of those who have believed on the Lord Jesus Christ."

"Christendom is a misused term, and is frequently applied to much that is no part of the true church. Christendom has, in many cases, displaced Christ."

Briefly reviewing the history of the church, the speaker pointed out inconsistencies that have from time to time crept into so-called Christian observances. He stated that whenever there has been persecution the church has experienced blessing and growth.

It was pointed out that the prophecies of Scripture dealing with the future of the church do not apply to all Christendom, but only to that portion that meets the requirements set forth in the Bible.

Tonight Dr. Gaebelein will speak on the subject, "If Not—Then What?" Tomorrow night's topic will be "Our Christian Priesthood." These services will be at 7:30 in the Ebell clubhouse auditorium. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the last in a series of four studies in the Gospel of Matthew will be conducted in Berean hall, 407 Fruit street.

Co-operating in these meetings are the Church of the Brethren, Christian and Missionary Alliance, United Brethren, and Calvary church.

The Public Forum

Dear Sir:

With all the current discussion about commercialization in athletics and various other fields it might be well to do a little discussing about some commercialization being done right here in Santa Ana. It seems that the printers of Santa Ana and Orange county, in common with the printers of every other city and county in the United States have a code under the NRA by which their prices are set.

It is a hard enough row for the local printers to hoe without the commercialization of the print shop in the Santa Ana high school and junior college. Yet this is being done, even though the very able Mr. Thomas Williams, head of the printing department at the local institution of learning, denies it very vigorously.

However, although names are being withheld here, a certain well known tailor in this city is having his business cards printed, at a price under the local printing code, by a young student who uses the facilities of the high school print shop for his own gain. It is a fact, also, that certain printers in this city have already complained to the school authorities but nothing has been done about it.

While those in charge may be in complete ignorance as to what is being done under their very noses, it is a situation that should not continue, in fair play to both the local print shops and others concerned. It has always been understood that the public pays school taxes to maintain institutions of learning for the youth of the city, not places where they may earn money and by so doing deprive those qualified to do so from making a living.

Would it not be very much better for all concerned if the local printers did the work and by so doing increased the brightness of local conditions so much that those aspiring young students who have a yearning to become printers and obtain positions with local printers and earn their money in a manner that would be fair to all?

In behalf of those who might have erred it might be said that it is very easy to take the other fellow's bread and butter out of his mouth, sometimes unconsciously. Anyway, it is something to think about.

SPORTS EDITOR-COACH
Olet Grant, quarterback under Rockne in 1926 and 1927, has returned to Notre Dame as coach of the backfield under Elmer Layden. Coaches throughout the country are pretty sure to check up pretty closely on Grant's work this year, not because he was a quarterback under Rockne, but because he has been a sports writer.

Grant goes from a position as critic to one where he has to produce the guys who make the plays for the sports scribes to write about. So the sports editors will watch him pretty closely, too. If Notre Dame comes up with a real backfield this year, coaches will ask, "Who ever told that sports writer he could coach?"

If Grant's backfield is a slashing success, all the football writers in the country will rush to print with "What this country needs is more sports editors as coaches."

THAT IOWA GAME

Grant played football with two mighty fine teams at Notre Dame. The 1926 team won 10 games and lost none. That was the year of George Gipp, immortalized by Rockne as one of the greatest football players of all time. Frank Coakley was the captain of that team.

The 1927 team, when it played Iowa, bumped into three of the toughest football players who ever drew on a cleated shoe. As Olet Grant rattled off the signals he looked down into the upturned face of "Duke" Slater, and in that Iowa backfield were Captain Aubrey Devine and that super-plunger, Gordon Locke.

Notre Dame scored in the first half when Johnny Mohardt heaved a long pass to Kiley who ran 30 yards for a touchdown. The Hawkeyes retaliated by sending Locke time after time through Slater. Locke tore through great holes ripped in the line by the giant colored tackle.

THE ONLY DEFEAT

Locke finally crashed over for a touchdown. In the first half, also Captain Devine kicked a field goal. After that both teams struggled to the point of exhaustion. Notre Dame came dangerously close to another touchdown, but the mighty Iowa line held at critical times.

That was the only game Notre Dame lost that year. Grant can look back on a splendid record—one defeat against 20 victories in the two years during which he was quarter under Rockne.

S. C. BRUINS OPEN BIG SERIES FRIDAY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—Southern California-U. C. L. A. basketball rivalry will reach one of the highest points in its history when the Bruins and Bruins clash in the Olympic auditorium Friday and Saturday nights. Southern California is tied for the divisional conference lead and U. C. L. A. is at the bottom of the league, but these little differences in standings will not affect the old battling spirit unless to heighten it.

The Bruins and Bruins are in their seventh year of competition for the "city championship." Troy took the series in 1929, 1930 and 1931, with Westwood winning it in '32, '31 and '32. The Bruins now lead with two victories in the campaign for the 1934 series. In games won and lost Southern California has the lead during the Trojan-Bruin rivalry with 13 victories to seven.

Not only the desire to go into the series lead, but also the opportunity to stay in the running for the conference championship will motivate the Bruins in their play this week-end. On the other hand, U. C. L. A. can help win the championships for its big brother, California at Berkeley, by beating S. C. and consequently Coach Caddy Works' Westwoodians will be fighting for the Blue and Gold both of the Bruins and the Bears.

TILDEN AND VINES BLANK FRENCHMEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Ellsworth Vines and "Big Bill" Tilden today had a clean sweep advantage of five matches over Henri Cochet and Martin Plais of France as they prepared to resume their international professional indoor tennis competition on a country-wide tour.

Vines and Tilden won all five matches played at Madison Square Garden, two last night and three Monday night.

They wound up the New York stand by taking the two singles contests last night. Tilden beat Cochet after five blistering sets, 7-5, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, and Vines downed Plais, 12-11, 6-3, 6-3.

FROSH WIN JAYSEF CLASS MEET

FARMER 'PEES' FAVORED: FOUR GAMES FRIDAY

Opposing Chico, champion of the Tri-County league, Tustin high school's undefeated Class B basketball squad enters the first round of the Southern California championship tournament at 7:30 tonight.

Playing on their own floor, Coach Ernie Byrne's Farmers have been established as slight favorites due to their superior seasonal record, although Chico also goes to the post unbeaten.

Tustin barely nosed out Anaheim in its first game of the Orange league campaign, but gradually gained in strength until its conference record showed seven victories and 236 points as against no losses and 174 points. Tustin has averaged 25 points a game, as follows:

Tustin 27, Anaheim 26
Tustin 25, Brea-Olinda 23
Tustin 23, Huntington 20
Tustin 22, Newport Harbor 20
Tustin 22, S. J. Capistrano 19
Tustin 22, Garden Grove 18

Chico's history parallels Tustin's. The inlanders were fully extended to take their opener from Colton, 15-13, but won the rest of the contests on the schedule handily.

Outstanding in the Farmer offense are Sam Francis and Albert Reyes, forwards. Francis led the Orange league in scoring honors, with 58 points. Besides Francis and Reyes, Coach Byrne will start Stanley at center, P. Francis and Ulrich, guards. The mainstay of the Chico offense is Hilton, forward. Other starters will be Benito, forward, Harrison, center, Murielle and Cliburn, guards.

Eight Orange county high schools will engage in preliminaries of the first annual C. I. F. championship basketball tournament tomorrow.

Garden Grove opposes Orange in Tustin's spacious gym at 3 p. m. to be followed by a game between Santa Ana and Tustin. Winners and losers of the two contests meet at Tustin tomorrow night, the first one starting at 7:30.

San Juan Capistrano, Orange league champion, plays Citrus at Fullerton. Compton mixes with San Bernardino. The winners clash tomorrow evening at 8. Anaheim's Colonists face Fullerton's Indians at Whittier college, and Brea-Olinda mixes with Whittier high school in a second game.

Joie Ray, Famed Runner Of Other Days, Badly Hurt

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Joie Ray, one-time famous track star, was in a hospital today with a possible skull fracture as the result of a fall last night in a roller skating marathon.

Ray, a strong contender, slipped during a sprint on the 15th day of the scheduled 21-day event. He sprawled on the track and was kicked in the head by a racer coming fast from behind.

FORT WORTH SIGNS WERA, FORMER OAK

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Assistant Secretary Roy Meehan today announced the Fort Worth Texas league baseball club had obtained Julian Wera, Pacific Coast league third baseman, for this season.

Wera played with Portland and Oakland last season. Although he is only 259 last year prior to that he had been a consistent 300 hitter.

Little Pancho In Knockout Victory

OAKLAND, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Little Pancho, Filipino flyweight, scored a technical knockout over Frankie Genaro, New York, former flyweight champion, in the eighth round of their bout here last night. Referee Eddie Burns stopped the contest to save the one-time champion from further punishment. Pancho is a brother of late Pancho Villa, also a former champion in the flyweight class.

McGraw Reported Greatly Improved

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 22.—(UP)—John J. McGraw, veteran baseball manager, spent "a very comfortable night" his physicians said today. He is "considerably improved."

The morning bulletin, issued at New Rochelle hospital, where the former Giants' manager is suffering from uremia, said there were "no new signs or symptoms" temperature, 103.8; pulse, 100; respiration, 32."

Hamilton Cancels U. C. 'Frat' Meet

BERKELEY, Feb. 22.—Califonia's interfraternity track meet scheduled for Saturday will be deferred until later in the season, Coach Brutus Hamilton announced today.

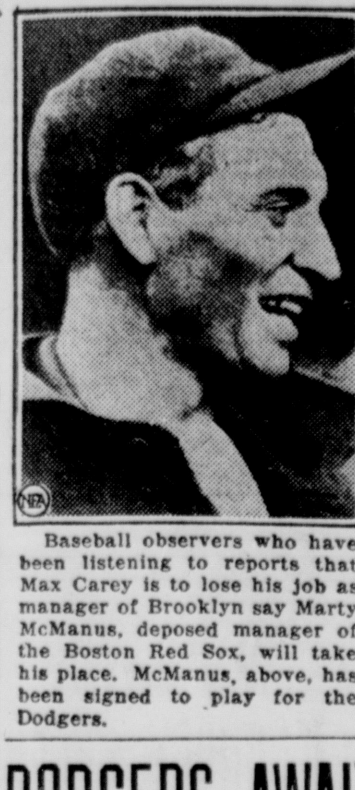

ROAMING CAMERAMAN SNAPS SPORTS PICTURES HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE

The job of assistant starter at a race track isn't all peaches and cream. There is Joe Nelson, who holds that job at Agua Caliente, braving the threat of flying feces in trying to pacify "Prize Boy" at the start of a race at the Mexican track.

Using a swing more suited to pick handling, Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, is making golf part of his training for the forthcoming bout with Tommy Loughran. The champ is shown blasting out of a trap.

Baseball observers who have been listening to reports that Max Carey is to lose his job as manager of Brooklyn say Marty McManus, deposed manager of the Boston Red Sox, will take his place. McManus, above, has been signed to play for the Dodgers.

Some of these days the Chicago White Sox may have a woman at the helm—for the young belle above, June Grabner, daughter of the White Sox president, is starting in to learn the business from the ground up. Here she is catching a few fast shots at Miami Beach, Fla.

Rudolf Hokanson, above, Milwaukee civic leader, is head of the syndicate of Milwaukee business men which recently purchased the American Association baseball club of that city from the estate of the late Phil Ball, St. Louis magnate. The price reported was more than $100,000.

GREENE 'FINDS' 440 PROSPECT: WILSON STARS

Freshmen of Santa Ana Junior college today were celebrating one of the most impressive victories ever scored over the sophomores in their annual interclass track meet, which ended at Poly field yesterday with Lucian Wilson's underclassman in a commanding lead, 90 to 36.

Captain Ray Hoar's sophomores, outclassed 35-19 in six events Monday, were swept aside again yesterday, 55-17, as the frosh won seven out of the remaining eight events, and polled heavily in second and third places.

Coach Reese Greene's discovery of Elbert Bauman, a freshman transfer from Nebraska, in the 440-yard dash was one of the highlights. Far from condition, Bauman negotiated the quarter-mile in 55.8 seconds, and was heard to remark after the race that "the time isn't bad for so early in the season." Greene believes the bulky candidate, tall and with powerful legs, will get down near 50 seconds flat before the '34 season is half completed.

Lucian Wilson, believed by many to be the best prospect in the high hurdles, lived up to his honor of class captain by winning his scoring honors with 13 points. Second in the 100-yard dash Monday, Wilson added three firsts yesterday with a 16.3 victory in the 120-yard hurdles, a 13.9 win in the 120 low hurdles, and a 24.1 victory in the 220.

Kenneth Vandruft, former Huntington Beach star, extended Wilson in the high barriers with a close second ahead of Walt King. The track, soaked with rain the day before, was not in good shape, and added to the fact that the athletes have not reached their true form, the time of 16.3 was considered excellent. It is predicted that Wilson, who ran a 15.3 race at Fresno last season, will come close to 15 flat against more experienced competition this year.

Second to Wilson for high hurdles was Paul Jacques, ineligible sophomore who competed for California at Berkeley in '33. Jacques earned 13 points, with firsts in the high jump at 5:10, in the pole vault at 11.3, and a fast second to Wilson in the low hurdles. Wilburn Anderson, winning the 15-pound shot put at 37.5 and the discus at 110 feet, tied Vandruft for third honors with 10 points. In addition to his second in the hurdles, Vandruft took the broad jump and tied Vincent Green for second in the high jump.

Malbon Coasts in Mile
Rudy Holman, who won the mile-and-a-half Monday, did not compete in the mile, so "Chuck" Malbon, Garden Grove star, ran four easy laps to win in 5 minutes, 10.9 seconds. Kenneth Ulrich, sophomore, finished a good second, and Ed Clark, petite freshman from Orange, third.

Coach Greene's Dons will participate in the fourth annual Southern California College Relays at Riverside Saturday.

DODGERS AWAIT STENGEL: POST PAY QUESTION

By JACK CUDDY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—There was joy in Flatbush today as the curtain rose on a modern version of "Casey at the Bat."

It was a double holiday. Baseball fans combined observance of Washington's birthday with joyous preparations to greet Casey Stengel, the man who they hoped would step up to the plate, accept the Dodgers' managership and blast the baseball blues smack over the Ebbetts field fence.

The mighty Casey was expected to arrive tonight or tomorrow. He will be offered the piloting job left vacant by dismissal of Max Carey, who occupied the berth two seasons.

Only one factor may prevent Casey from grabbing the offer. That is salary. Casey is understood to be receiving about $6000 a year as coach. The Dodgers are economizing this season, and they face a dead loss of $12,500 in the 1934 salary which they have guaranteed to pay Carey, although no longer with the club.

If the Dodgers' directors try to get the mighty Casey for less than $10,000, Stengel may turn down the offer—out of loyalty to Carey. Stengel, who is a shrewd chap despite his clowning, may figure a couple of extra thousand would not be worth the worry and the chance of having his reputation sullied as pilot of the eccentric Dodgers.

Moreover, rumors that the Dodgers might be sold shortly to a syndicate headed by Col. Tillinghast Huston, former co-owner of the New York Yankees, might make him hesitate. If Huston took over the Dodgers, he would be certain to bring back to Brooklyn old "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson, who managed the club 17 years.

Should Casey refuse, Marty McManus, last season's manager of the Boston Red Sox under Quinn, who then owned them, have offered signed McManus, intending to give him a try for the infield. In addition, Glenn Wright, former Dodger shortstop and field captain, who was released last week, might get the bid. Burleigh Grimes and Zach Wheat also have been mentioned.

Carey Bitter At Discharge By Brooklyn

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Max Carey believes his dismissal as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers should go down in baseball history as "something or other."

"In fact it may establish a precedent," said Max hotly. "It's the first time in baseball history that a manager has been fired for failing to win games during the winter."

Carey attributed his removal to "certain newspapers" which "have been riding me for quite a spell." He thought he might investigate the possibilities of suing the papers.

"I can think of no other reason for this over-the-winter change of heart on the part of Brooklyn officials," he continued. "They had confidence enough in me last August to give me a new contract. And now, they don't think enough of me to let me run the club."

Carey said he held no ill feeling against Stengel, and wished him the best of luck.

MIAMI'S RING BOARD MAY NAME REFEREE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Unless managers of Champion Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran agree before tomorrow night on a referee for their title bout Wednesday, the Miami boxing commission will pick him.

Loughran's manager, Joe Smith, Duffy, met with the commission yesterday but the huddle broke up with no choice made.

The commission had given the managers a choice of three Miami referees: Leo Shea, Charles Wheeler and "Red" McLaughlin. "Gunboat" Smith of New York applied for a license, hoping to referee the bout, but the commission refused to grant it.

ILLINOIS MOVES TO STOP HORSE DOPING

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Horse-racing in Illinois will be under the strictest supervision this season in an effort to stamp out the evil of doping the horses, Peter B. Carey, chairman of the newly appointed Illinois racing commission, said today.

"Reports have come to us from winter tracks that a few trainers have resorted to using whiskey, gin and brandy instead of narcotics to put more life in their horses," said Carey. "The rules of the Illinois commission will prevent the use of a stimulant of any kind. The discovery of any stimulant where race horses are quartered will be evidence enough to cause disbarment in this state."

DAYS OF CIVIL WAR RECALLED AT W. R. C. MEET

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—A patriotic program was given at the regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps Wednesday afternoon when a large number of visitors shared a covered dish dinner and an afternoon program with members. Mrs. Hazel Hall presided.

The lodge room was appropriately decorated and a basket of red, white and blue lilies, arranged by Mrs. Hattie Buhrman, was on the president's table. DR. BALLARD IN DISCUSSION OF LIFE IMPULSES

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—Declaring that the mind is at work every moment of consciousness, imagining, wondering, feeling, intuiting, Dr. J. H. Ballard, who is giving a series of lectures on "Adventures in Self-Understanding," spoke last night at the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Ballard stated that the higher mental faculties, such as reasoning, directs us, but never drives us. He stated that at the bottom of our mental life there is a body of impulses and drives, that makes us "go" mentally. He further stated that these drives are to a large extent inherited, are found in all normal individuals, are permanent and cannot be erased. They are closely related to the emotions and are as old as the race, he said.

"The ineffectiveness of life," said Dr. Ballard, "is largely due to our lack of knowledge as to how to handle these great impulses." He grouped the impulses into three groups, the ego impulse, which deals with everything having to do with oneself, whether good or bad, including those of self-preservation, self protection and self realization; the social impulses, a set of impulses dealing with one's relationship with fellowmen and the love impulses, including that of sex.

In closing, Dr. Ballard stated that there is not a thing that cannot be traced back to one or more of these forces. He also said that Jesus did not condemn a single impulse, but that he appealed to it and used it in the building up of his kingdom.

"Christ showed us how to express impulses in the right way," Dr. Ballard declared.

Tri-County Democratic Rally At Laguna Tonight

ZACH COBB TO BE SPEAKER AT DINNER EVENT

The first Democratic rally in Laguna Beach since the presidential election campaign in 1932 will be held tonight at Hotel Laguna. The rally will be preceded by a dinner to be served at 7 o'clock. Democratic leaders of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties have promised to attend and N. E. West, president of the Laguna Beach Democratic club, who will be toastmaster, has extended an invitation to members of all parties to participate.

The principal speaker will be Zach Laman Cobb, Los Angeles attorney and prominent in the Democratic party, who was collector of the port at Salveston during the Wilson administration. Cobb will be introduced by James L. Davis, deputy district attorney and chairman of the Orange County Democratic club.

A. W. Hoch, president of the California State Federation of Labor, will speak on the NRA and its effect on the workers of the state. A third speaker will be Mr. Muffler, secretary of the Los Angeles Democratic club.

Robert N. Bowen and Mrs. Lauretta Chilton will put on a musical program following the dinner. Reservations may be made by calling the Hotel Laguna, Laguna Beach 74, or through West, George E. Thompson, secretary of the club, or S. A. Hayward, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

INVITE JOBLESS TO MEET WITH CWA WORKERS

All registered CWA and CWS workers, those who formerly were connected with RFC work, with their wives and adult dependents, as well as persons at present unemployed, were invited today to participate in a mass meeting to be held tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the Colonial theater on South Glassell street, Orange.

Mrs. Barbara M. Brooks, who announced the meeting, said the meeting will be held under the auspices of the recently organized Worker's Cooperative association, a non-political organization in which no membership dues are charged.

The association was formed to further the economic and social interests of members, improve conditions in the home, correct misunderstandings and possible injustices and afford opportunity for education along lines calculated to increase understanding of the rapidly changing economic world of today, she said, to the end that practically realization of the ideals, purposes and implications of President Roosevelt's "new deal" may be attained.

It is not the purpose or intent of the group to usurp or duplicate the functions of other organized groups such as unemployed associations, but to cooperate with them in a chosen field in promoting the general welfare, she stated.

In addition to a speaker who will explain the methods and value of effective organization, the business of the meeting will include the election of a board of directors, one man and one woman from each county district, selection of entertainment and grievance committees, and making plans for a county-wide picnic in Irvine park. Workers with musical talent were urged to attend the meeting and volunteer their services for this occasion.

Five cents will be charged as admission for those who are working to cover cost of hall rent, Mrs. Brooks said.

GAY 'NINETIES PORTRAYED

A tense moment in "The Girl of Golden Gulch" is shown in this view of the Santa Ana Junior college production to be given tomorrow and Saturday nights in the Willard Junior High school auditorium. The humorous play is an adaption of a sketch written in the 'nineties and is being presented by the jaysee music department.

WARM SEASON SAVES CITRUS CROWERS EXPENSE OF FIGHT AGAINST ATTACKS OF FROST

Orange county citrus growers had one lucky break during the current season that enabled them to save thousands of dollars, according to Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg. The unusually warm winter season cut down their orchard heating bills to a minimum.

According to Wahlberg there was only one night during the winter when it was necessary to light the heaters and on that night only a portion of them were fired. He estimated that on the one occasion when heaters were necessary they were used only in a portion of the 5000 acres protected by heaters. The total citrus acreage in the county is 65,000 acres.

Wahlberg said that while he did not believe that all the heaters were kept burning the entire night the only way the cost of the one night of protection could be estimated was on the basis of five hours of constant firing. Each heater consumes five gallons of crude oil in five hours and there are 40 heaters to the acre. The cost for five hours of steady fire is estimated at $7 per acre bringing the total cost of firing the 5000 acres for the full five-hour period up to approximately $35,000. On the one occasion when it was necessary to protect groves from frost, according to Wahlberg, it was estimated that the heaters were lighted in approximately 3000 acres making the total cost for the season not more than $21,000.

Last year it was necessary to use the heaters on five nights and while accurate estimates of the cost for that year are not obtainable he said that he believed the total would approximate $75,000.

Wahlberg also said that while the citrus growers saved considerable money through elimination of the necessity for operating the heaters the same warm weather brought them an additional menace through the possibility of increased citrus pests. The warm

"This is an increase of 19 per cent over last year and the inquiries are requesting detailed information about vacations in Southern California during the coming spring and summer months," said Day.

"They are being received from every state in the United States and 79 foreign countries and the states from which the largest number of inquiries are coming are New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Michigan, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

"The inquiries are from a high calibre of individual reflecting the increase in pleasure travel noted as a result of the up-turn in business in the East."

DISTRIBUTE SIX TONS BUTTER TO UNEMPLOYED

Distribution of 12,830 pounds of butter from federal food surpluses to the needy people of Orange county is being made by the County Welfare department on the basis of four pounds of butter to a family of four people. The butter, according to Welfare Director Byron Curry will go to approximately 3720 needy families.

Distribution of the butter follows recent distribution of pork and eggs also received from the federal surplus food stock. In distributing the pork, Curry said, the allowance prescribed in a recent Federal Emergency Relief Administration bulletin had to be reduced because of the small amount of pork received. The last shipment was only 1934 pounds and had the federal schedule been maintained many needy people would have received none.

A new order relative to distribution of surplus foodstuffs has been received and prohibits the distribution of federal surpluses to CWA workers.

CITY OFFICIALS TO MEET IN ANAHEIM

City officials of Orange county will meet tonight in the 12th club in Anaheim to hear discussions on the CWA, civil service, codification of city ordinances, state liquor control and other matters of importance to municipalities.

President A. C. Hasenjaeger of the Orange County League of Municipalities will preside at the meeting. Robert Ramsey, CWA director and Attorney Roy Thompson of Fullerton will be the main speakers.

Present Arguments For Duty On Cuban Avocado Imports

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—The California growers' case against the huge imports of wild Cuban avocados is being upheld by the Calavo Growers' Exchange which has retained Phil Swing, foremost tariff authority to carry on the legal battle in Washington. Every Santa Ana Passes Corner

Every person in Santa Ana walked past Fourth and Main streets last Saturday. Whether or not that was true, 33,000 persons were counted between 8 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. on the four corners of the intersection and there are that many citizens living in the city.

The pedestrian census was taken in connection with the opening in 10 days of a new Spanish banquet hall at Fourth and Main streets by Harold Hopkins and E. S. Goodner.

COUNTY ROAD PATROL DANCE SET MARCH 17

Tickets were on sale today for the annual benefit dance of the California highway patrol which will be held on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, in the Valencia ballroom on 101 highway north of the county hospital.

Members of the county patrol squad emphasized that they hold only one dance each year and that the recent dance at the Valencia, advertised as the Orange County Speedoos ball, had no connection with the highway patrol. The last dance was sponsored by the California Municipal and County Motorcycle Officers association, a private organization, and created a misunderstanding with friends of the highway patrol, members said.

Proceeds from the benefit dance go into the widows' and orphans' fund to help dependents of officers killed or injured on duty. Captain Henry Meehan pointed out that 12 men were killed and 39 injured in the state last year and that each county squad holds one dance each year to support this work.

Tickets for the dance are sold only by men in the official patrol uniform, Meehan said. This is done to protect the public and avoid misrepresentations from private individuals.

case, F. M. Dolan, president of the Florida Avocado Growers' Exchange, along with senators and congressmen from his state, represented Florida.

State department officials admitted that the case asking for the protection of an American industry was one of the best ever presented before it, and promised to give it "due consideration." The court's interpretation is expected within three weeks.

"PEACE" TOPIC AT YOUTH MEET HERE TONIGHT

The Washington Birthday program which is being given by the youth of Orange County at the People's Forum, Third and Birch streets at 7:30 o'clock tonight, will offer as its main feature an address on "The Peril of War and a Program for Peace," given by the Rev. Russell Stroup, pastor of the Christ Church by the Sea in Newport Beach.

At Stanford University, Dr. Stroup specialized in history and international law and in his graduate work for the Master of Arts Degree his thesis was on the subject of peace. His address will stress the imminent danger of war in the world and the means by which America can avoid active participation, it is announced.

In addition to the lecture, a dramatized dialogue called "The Unknown Soldier Speaks," will be given by Peter and Andrew Skipper of Newport Beach.

Charles Warner of Santa Ana, president of the Orange County American Youth council will preside at the meeting and Carl Vost of Brea, vice president, will tell the purpose of the organization. The public is invited and no admission charge is to be made.

HELD FOR ASSAULT

Henry S. Smith, 43, Buena Park truck driver, has been booked at the county jail for assault and battery by Constable Edward Marion.

"LOST PATROL" ON BROADWAY SCREEN

Another great drama, to be placed beside "What Price Glory," "Beau Geste" and "The Big Parade," comes to the Broadway theater today to play throughout the remainder of the week. It is John Ford's new adventure drama, "The Lost Patrol."

Starring Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, Wallace Ford and Reginald Denny, it is a story of part of a company of the French Foreign Legion, lost in the desert, surrounded by hostile Arabs and fighting every step of the way back to safety. There are no women in the cast.

The second feature is "Coming Out Party," starring Frances Dee and Gene Raymond. The story concerns a debutante and her coming out party.

Past Presidents of Calumit Auxiliary Entertained

Monday night's rainy skies were in sharp contrast to the cheerful aspect of the H. C. Moberly home at 801 North Van Ness avenue, where Mrs. Moberly received Past Presidents of Calumit auxiliary U. S. W. V. at an evening party of marked charm.

Decorations in red, white and blue heightened the cheery effect of the scene, and were especially attractive in the dining room where guests were assembled at the close of the evening for refreshments appropriate to the patriotic dates observed. The table was centered with a small cherry tree laden with ruby fruit, and the tri-colors were seen in nut cups and other pretty details.

The evening opened with a short business session led by Mrs. Elva Hunt, chairman, followed by a bridge session in which appropriate prizes were presented Mrs. Bertha Dixon and Mrs. Nannie Reed, holders of first and second high score.

Mrs. Moberly's guests were Mesdames Nannie Reed, Bertha Dixon, Elva Hunt, Katherine Reagan, Estelle Dresser, May Glaze, Edna Hanna and Emma King Wasson.

Ebbl Women Will Have Folk Songs, Dances On Program

"Songs and Dances of Many Lands" are to be interpreted for Ebbl society members at their club program next Monday afternoon in the clubhouse auditorium, by Miss Ilda Bianchi, soprano, and Miss Antonia Morales, dancer, assisted by Antonio Corral, guitarist, according to announcement made today by the program committee.

George Rayner, Mrs. F. W. Slaughter and Mrs. A. G. Flagg. In arranging their program the artists have sought the unusual folk songs and dances of the different countries, and have invested them with the special charm of costumes and settings eloquent of the lands in which they are an essential part of the native life.

Gypsy dances and songs of the Balkans will be given their correct atmosphere, or perhaps the mood will be expressed of some of the lesser known sections of Hungary with such songs as "Czek Ery Kislaya" (The Only Girl) or "Anasam Anayam" (Mother Mother) or of Spain with such dances as "La Garterana" the dance of a Toledo lace vendor.

A feature which has proven popular has been "In a Hacienda" with songs of early California and typical Mexican dances, introduced.

Ilda Bianchi is Hungarian by birth, and studied for the opera in Budapest under Deszo Markus, Hungary's "Dean of the Opera." She has been heard in many roles, but seems to have found her true field in interpreting the songs of the people. Antonia Morales has recently returned from Europe where she not only studied with some of the finest living teachers of the dance, but spent many months wandering with gypsy tribes of different lands in order to master their art at first hand. Her costumes were made by one of the foremost designers of Paris and are absolutely authentic for whatever roles she portrays, whether the trailing costume of the "Algerias Flamenco" or that of the little lace vendor in "La Garterana." Hungary, Russia, Spain, Bulgaria, and other lands of Europe have afforded these artists the material from which their programs are assembled. Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Ebbl president, will preside at the opening club session at 2 o'clock and the program will follow immediately.

Former Dakotans Are Guests at Bridge Party

Former residents of White, S. Dak., took part in a pleasant affair given last night when Mr. and Mrs. Lars Hanson entertained in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKnight of White, S. D., houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. John Doughty of Tustin. The Hanson home, 2468 Riverside drive, brightened with stocks and sweet peas, was setting for the enjoyable evening, which was given over to bridge. Mrs. Marah Adams and J. F. Catherina scored high and Mrs. Frank Halstead and Walter Doughty, low. Prize winners received attractive awards wrapped in white tissues with red, white and blue ribbons. A Washington Birthday theme was further observed during the refreshment hour, when a cherry topped dessert was served with hatch shaped cookies and coffee. Tables were spread with covers of patriotic design and centered with tapers rising from red candlesticks circled with flags, giving a Washington monument effect. Mrs. Hanson was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Alice Hanson, and by Mrs. Minnie Jamison of San Bernardino, a houseguest in the Hanson home.

Those sharing the event with Mr. and Mrs. Hanson were the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKnight of White, S. Dak., Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Doughty and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Doughty, San Pedro; Mrs. Minnie Jamison, San Bernardino; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Adams, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Merle Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Oriental Lands Offer Interesting Theme For Travel Talk

Mrs. W. C. Watkins, Mrs. James Tarpley and Mrs. Minnie Fields, hostesses at Monday's Second Ebbl Travel section luncheon, planned a pleasant affair for their sister Travelers when they met in Ebbl clubhouse lounge.

A score of members and two special guests, Mrs. Ben Andrews and Robert White, the latter giving the subsequent travel program, found places at a beautifully arranged table whose red, white and blue flowers, candies in silver candelabra, grouped silken flags and hatchet favors, all suggested Washington's Birthday. Shades were drawn and the inviting menu was enjoyed by candlelight. Mrs. Tarpley and her niece, Mrs. Andrews, here from Vincennes, Ind., served while Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Fields in colonial costume, presided at the silver tea and coffee urns placed at opposite ends of the big table.

Afternoon features included the business program directed by Mrs. Theo A. Winbigger, leader, and one of the section's most entertaining speakers of the year, Robert White. The young Santa Anna has had three trips around the world, and told in inimitable fashion, some of his experiences in China, Japan, and the Philippines, giving a comprehensive description of the various countries and their peoples. He closed his fascinating talk with a description of Italy and the land surrounding Vesuvius, and told of his descent into the second crater of the volcano. At the luncheon meeting and program on March 19, Mesdames J. R. Medlock, Emma French and F. W. Wiesseman will be hostesses.

Original Manuscripts Read at Quill Pen Club Program

Two short stories were featured on this week's program of Quill Pen club, whose members were guests of Mrs. J. D. Campbell, 182 South Pepper street, Orange.

The submitted manuscripts, heard with much interest by the group, were "Blind Date," a story of college youth, read by its author, Miss Lella Watson, and Mrs. J. U. Viaw's development of a psychic theme in an equally interesting original tale.

Continuing the program Mrs. Marshall Harnois read her notes of an address given by Robert Speed before his classes in creative writing in the Santa Ana evening high school course.

At the refreshment hour which concluded the evening, and at which those present were joined by other members returning from the Cantando concert in Orange High school auditorium, Mrs. Campbell offered a special surprise. For she had planned decorations to suggest birthdays, especially complimenting Mrs. Roy Winchester whose anniversary it was. A delicious birthday cake, sparkling with candles, was placed for Mrs. Winchester to cut and serve.

At the meeting on March 6, Mrs. Samuel B. Marshall will be hostess in her hillside home in El Modena. Manuscripts will be due from the hostess herself, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Maude Goff and Mrs. Marah Adams.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority members are to have one of their regular reunions Saturday afternoon of this week when Miss Reva Hawkins will be hostess at a dessert bridge party at 1 o'clock in her home, 2331 Benton way. Miss Hawkins and other members of the sorority have made an attempt to communicate with all Alpha Chi Omega members in the city, but have asked any affiliate of the sorority whom they have not contacted to join them for the afternoon, and telephone for any additional information to Miss Hawkins at 3023-M.

Women's Auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical Union will entertain with a benefit bridge party Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when Mrs. C. E. Fisher will be hostess at 1127 West Seventeenth street. A salad course will be served preceding card play.

Security Benefit association members were reminded today of their open meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in M. W. A. hall, when M. M. Hutchcraft, new district manager, will be present for the first time.

Post Nuptial Shower Honors February Bride

Mrs. Floyd Hubbard, who was Miss Gertrude Chapman preceding her marriage of February 10 in Las Vegas, Nev., was complimented at a post-nuptial shower given recently when the Misses Katherine Chapman and Helen Wiesseman joined as hostesses in the latter's home, 501 West Nineteenth street.

A valentine theme dominated all decorative details, including pretty tulle distributed for bridge play during early hours of the afternoon. While tables were being arranged attractively for the refreshment hour, Masters Billy and Robbie Stauffer, nephews of Miss Wiesseman, made their entrance drawing a valentine decked wagon laden with packages for the honoree. Pretty tissues and wrappings proved to be general gifts of miscellaneous nature.

Taking part in the affair with Miss Chapman and Miss Wiesseman, other than the bride, Mrs. Hubbard, were her mother and her husband's mother, Mrs. George Chapman and Mrs. E. A. Hubbard, and Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, and the Misses Katharine Robbins, Natalie Neff, Jeanne Leive, Betty Bondley, Isabel Bondley, Winifred Ball, Marjorie Hatter, Clarice Isenor, Roberta Channess, Lorraine Farrage, Jeanette Lutes and Dorothy Jardine.

Grab Meat Salad

1 cup flaked crab meat
1-2 cup finely diced celery
1 large ripe tomato
Salt, pepper and cayenne
1-2 cup mayonnaise
Crisp lettuce leaves.

—Contributed Recipe.

Flake and chill the crab—I always rinse mine under cold water, not because it needs it, but I dislike to think of eating food touched by other hands.

Add the finely shredded celery, salt, pepper, and a few grains of cayenne. Dress with part of the mayonnaise, using two forks to lift the salad. Take up by spoonfuls on crisp lettuce heart leaves, and top off with the remaining mayonnaise, adding a dash of paprika for color.

The contributor says to peel the tomato, cut open and remove seeds, then dice and add to the crab meat. That is good, but why not use the tomato for more ornamental purposes, slicing or quartering it, the pieces arranged on the salad the last thing?

There are 1000 calories in the salad and portions for three.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Salmon Souffle

1 can salmon
1-2 cup bread crumbs
1-2 cup milk
3 eggs
1-2 cup walnuts
Salt and lemon juice to taste.

—Contributed Recipe.

I assume that a half-pound can of salmon was used in this recipe.

Remove bones and skin from salmon, flake nicely. Add the crumbs, salt, pepper and enough lemon juice to take away the flat canned taste. Add the whipped eggs, milk and walnuts, cut fine. Put into a buttered baking dish and bake until firm (about 25 minutes).

Watch the heat, for with three eggs, there will be danger of curdling if the heat is too intense, then your souffle will be a bad looking mess. Then, too, I think you will have a fluffier souffle if two of the egg whites are beaten stiff and folded into the mixture last.

There are approximately 1700 calories in the souffle. Portions for six when served for luncheon, and four if it is a dinner dish.

Friday: A Russian Salad, utilizing left-overs. And a college girl's favorite fudge recipe.

"It shows fine ethical qualities in men of various types."
"Gripping, powerful tragedy of the futility of war. A strong plea for peace."

Alhambra Man Awarded Arch Beach Sewer Contract

PWA ASKED TO SEND CREDITS FOR PROJECT

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 22.—J. C. Hickey, of Alhambra, low bidder with a tender of $161,000, was awarded the contract to build the Arch Beach sewer trunk line, treatment plant and outfall line at the meeting last night of the Laguna Beach city council. The bid had been approved by F. J. Trask, chief engineer in California for the public works administration.

The government will pay 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials and will take over the bonds for the remainder of the work at four per cent. The total loan and grant by the government was $190,000 and because of rights-of-way that probably will run to condemnation suits and other expenses it is anticipated that the full amount will be needed.

The council adjourned until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when the contractor's bond will be ready for acceptance. The posted checks of all other bidders were ordered returned.

City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey announced that he had wired to Col. H. M. Waite of the PWA in Washington asking that the proper credits for the loan be forwarded at once so that the work may be started. His action was approved by vote of the council. About $4000 in taxes will be raised to offset the loss of city revenues from the cut in the county assessed valuation if the people approve a proposition which will be placed on the April ballot authorizing the council to impose a 15-cent tax for parks, music and advertising. Only a majority vote is needed to carry the increase.

The city attorney was instructed to prepare the ordinance calling for the vote of the council. He called to the fact that $2500 advanced by the city during the proceedings leading up to the letting of the sewer contract will be returned.

A large delegation of merchants flocked into the council chamber to hear Attorney Leslie F. Kimball, representing the chamber of commerce, advocate the passing of an ordinance to protect business men against the "fly-by-night" dog stand and soft drink merchant of the summer months. Kimball asked that the present ordinance, which provides that a merchant may obtain a city license by showing a year's lease and a receipt for the first and last months' rent, be substituted by one that requires the posting of a bond or cash to guarantee that he will remain in business for six months or else pay a license at the rate of $5 per day. Councilman J. E. Bishop declared, "You can't legislate competition out of town." He then moved the appointment of a committee to work out an ordinance that will "help everybody."

Mayor Frank B. Champion appointed Councilman Bishop, M. S. McMillan and George W. Wilson. The committee will meet Friday evening with a committee of the chamber of commerce to see what may be worked out.

Interference with radio reception in Laguna Beach and elsewhere along the Orange county coast by amateur sending sets will be investigated by City Attorney Harvey. A complaint was made that the stations would not interfere if properly handled.

Councilman C. R. Clapp, commissioner of roads, reported that when the south mile of Coast boulevard is paved this spring that the home of Karl Yens, noted painter, will be "thrown into a hole." Councilman Clapp expressed the hope that a beautiful tree on the Yens place could be saved. Mayor Champion expressed the belief that the state highway department will do everything possible to save trees and shrubbery.

The city attorney was ordered to prepare a "loitering" ordinance, patterned after the county ordinance, which he read. The ordinance is aimed to curb the abuses of picketing during strikes. It was pointed out that the law would be useful to handle riots or in emergencies of many kinds.

DINNER PARTY HELD BY H. B. BUSINESS MEN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 22.—The Business Men's association held its first women's night program at the Golden Bear cafe Tuesday night. Lee Channess, president, presided, and A. W. Frost and J. Sherman Denny were in charge of the program. Sol White, membership chairman, reported 9 new members of the association.

The meeting was adjourned until March 6 at 8 p. m. at the Community club when the committee will report its list.

After W. Ajax Wolf had declined to serve as permanent secretary, when his name was suggested, Lloyd J. Seilast was elected to that post.

The principal points in the platform adopted are as follows: Favoring the development and preservation of the natural beauty of Laguna Beach and its environment in an effort to make the city a desirable year-round place of residence; favoring the development and maintenance of Laguna Beach as a center for art, drama, education and recreation; favoring only such commercial activities as will maintain the attractiveness of Laguna Beach as essentially a community of homes; favoring the protection of business institutions against the inroads of unfair competition, with the view of having successful institutions in Laguna Beach which will be able and willing to aid the development of the community.

Favoring reimbursement to members of the city council for all expenses incurred in performance of the duties of office; favoring cooperation between all citizens and groups of citizens and between citizens and the city council in order that unity of purpose and unity of achievement may be facilitated in municipal affairs; favoring the election of public-spirited councilmen, pledged to no specific action in advance other than to conform to the principles stated in the platform, to make an investigation of all facts in connection with all city problems and to conduct the business of the city in an economical and business-like manner, excluding bitterness, bias, prejudice and personalities.

LAGUNA GROUP GIVES REPORT MARCH SIXTH

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 22.—Following the adoption of a platform containing seven planks dealing with governmental problems in Laguna Beach and future growth and development of the city, a mass meeting called by a secret committee at the Community club Tuesday chose by secret ballot a nominating committee to name a ticket of three candidates for the three places on the city council to be voted upon at the April election.

The meeting was called, according to F. A. Fletcher, who was made permanent chairman, in an effort to avoid the factionalism that has characterized municipal elections in the beach city in past years. The committee chosen includes Mrs. R. Coleman DuSoo, Mrs. Miriam Heddes Smith, Mrs. Vonna Owens Webb, J. Orville Chilton, Richard A. Bird, Leslie F. Kimball, and Dr. David R. Hoffman.

The meeting was adjourned until March 6 at 8 p. m. at the Community club when the committee will report its list.

After W. Ajax Wolf had declined to serve as permanent secretary, when his name was suggested, Lloyd J. Seilast was elected to that post.

BREA COUNCIL TO PROTEST GOVERNMENT WORK RULING

BREA, Feb. 22.—F. A. Bowers, of Brea, a member of a labor union of Anaheim, appeared before the city council Wednesday night to ask the assistance of that body in protesting federal legislation which designates Brea, among other like communities, as rural district, thus cutting down appreciably the number of hours of federal work allotted Brea men per month.

Bowers said the government's interpretation of "rural" is based on conditions in eastern and middle eastern states, where families in villages have an acre or more of land, a cow and some chickens, as additional means of earning a livelihood. He said that Brea, perhaps more than any other community in Orange county, falls in this respect, to measure up to the government's definition of "rural," surrounded as the city is with large citrus groves and oil leases.

The council heard Bowers' protest with interest and Mayor L. A. Hogue, with the assistance of City Attorney Elmer R. Guy, will at once draft letters to California's representatives in Washington asking that the matter be given their attention. Hogue, and

W. C. T. U. TOLD LIFE WORK OF MISS WILLARD

GARDEN GROVE, Feb. 22.—"The Life of Frances E. Willard" was the subject of the program given at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held in the home of Mrs. G. F. Crane on Fifth street Wednesday afternoon, with J. E. Burke as the speaker in the afternoon.

Burke spoke of Miss Willard's character, of her training and preparation for her great work before she was called to it. Her long vision into the future for the preservation of youth was only partially shared by her followers in later years, he said. Her life laid out a foundation not only in temperance but in every line of work, he said. In every great need there has always been some one raised up to meet that need, such as Washington in his time, Abraham Lincoln and then Frances Willard, he brought out.

In honor of Frances Willard memorial services are being held by different unions during the month of February. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. G. L. Beardsley, president of the local W. C. T. U.

Mrs. David McLeod led the devotions. Charles Jaynes, three-year-old son of the Rev. Jaynes, gave the seventh chapter of Matthew, sang two songs and recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address. A farewell service was given for Mrs. Crane, who expects to move to Portland, Ore.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burke, Charles Jaynes, Mrs. G. L. Beardsley, Mrs. Emma Noble, Mrs. Lina Burns, Mrs. Leona Jenkins, Mrs. David McLeod, Mrs. Beattie Wade, Mrs. Eva Crosby, Mrs. Kate Hendricks, Mrs. Gerren, Mrs. Mae Bragg, Mrs. Alice Hale, Mrs. Nellie Amos, Mrs. Catherine Paul, Mrs. Neva Duff, Miss Mary Miller, Mrs. Van Dorn and Mrs. Crane.

PLAN SILVER TEA

LA HABRA, Feb. 22.—A silver tea is planned by the La Habra W. R. C. for the evening of February 23, at the home of Mrs. D. D. Hewitt, with Mrs. Robert Robinson as co-hostess.

The taxi jolted over the bumps. This particular road was unappealing and the driver glanced back at her over his shoulder, grinning a sort of apology. He was a rough-looking fellow in a ragged coat. She did not remember having seen him at Wading Hollow before. All at once panic seized her. What was she doing in this expanse of sea and sky, alone with this small, adorable, dependent child?

She directed the driver. It was just a few hundred yards beyond, she said. Yes, the little house with the white gate. But as she alighted and took out her purse to pay him she saw no one. The green door was shut and rambler roses drooped over the gateway, withering unpleased.

Gypsy thought the taxi driver looked at her oddly as he turned away. With the key which Tom had always kept in his top drawer she unlocked the door and stepped inside.

AUDITOR GIVES TALK AT MESA LIONS SESSION

COSTA MESA, Feb. 22.—The tax year 1931-32 was the best year for tax collections in the history of Orange county, it was stated by W. T. Lambert, county auditor, as he talked before local Lions at their regular weekly meeting Tuesday on the purposes and duties of his office. In that period, he said, delinquencies amounted to only about one or two per cent as against 40 to 50 per cent at present. Penalties collected, he said, are sufficient to carry the running expense of the office.

Last year 43 large volumes were required to record the business of the office, it was stated by the speaker. A complete record of the office's business from the time the county was organized has been kept.

Lambert explained briefly a new tax law that went into effect on July 22, 1933. The act permits payment of delinquent taxes of years prior to 1933-34 in five or 10 annual installments.

Fraternity Plans Dance on April 7

GARDEN GROVE, Feb. 22.—Members of Beta Lambda chapter of Phi Chi fraternity had a rush party and held open house at their fraternity home at 125 Pine street Monday evening. Plans were made for a dance to be given at the Los Serranos Country club April 7, when members from all over Southern California will be present.

Thirty-two members were present with the following guests: Bob McCulloch, of Garden Grove; Leo Morse, Jack Still, Don Casey, Ray Bush and Everett Noonan, of Santa Ana; Clarence Wharton and Foster Cheatum, of Anaheim.

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married on the same day as Lila Hotelling and Derek Bliss, but while Lila lives in luxury Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within their income.

After Gypsy's son is born her days become a dreary round of caring for him and for her home. She suspects Tom is interested in Vera Gray who works in the same office. Lila divorces Derek. Vera finds excuses to see Tom often and one night, after tricking him into taking her home, suggests they run away together. Tom leaves hastily.

Derek, learning Lila divorced him to marry Marko Broughton, richer and older, comes uninvited to a dinner party given by Lila. Gypsy is there and also Hunt Gibson, Derek who has been drinking, falls from a balcony to the street. Several days later he dies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV

When Gypsy got off the train she could see the blue line of the Sound far to the left. She drew a long breath. She held David up to see, and he blew an ecstatic bubble as she lifted him into the lone taxi drawn up beside the station platform. In the clear wash of mid-summer sunlight the outlines of her surroundings were sharply etched. Scrub oak and evergreens against a background of white, white sand. Beyond a straggling road to the beach. After the train wound away there was silence here, utter and complete, and the girl in the blue line from the white car stepped brby on her knee, shivered.

Her thoughts, released, sprang back once more toward what she had been fleeing. Was she, really, a deserted wife? Was she "the unknown woman" whom, presumably, reporters and detectives sought in the death of Derek Bliss? Ridiculous! And yet, grimly, it was true. She was trembling with fatigue. The day had been a long one, with a journey by train, by ferry, by yet another train, but her physical sensations were blotted out by an agony of mind which comprehended that all her running away was of no actual avail. One could not run away from oneself!

The taxi jolted over the bumps. This particular road was unappealing and the driver glanced back at her over his shoulder, grinning a sort of apology. He was a rough-looking fellow in a ragged coat. She did not remember having seen him at Wading Hollow before. All at once panic seized her. What was she doing in this expanse of sea and sky, alone with this small, adorable, dependent child?

She directed the driver. It was just a few hundred yards beyond, she said. Yes, the little house with the white gate. But as she alighted and took out her purse to pay him she saw no one. The green door was shut and rambler roses drooped over the gateway, withering unpleased.

Gypsy thought the taxi driver looked at her oddly as he turned away. With the key which Tom had always kept in his top drawer she unlocked the door and stepped inside.

She drew the shades and switched on the electricity. There were memories to haunt her in this little house—memories of two buoyant young people in a gold and

C. of C. President Recalls Talk With King of Belgium

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 22.—A. B. Rousseau, president of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce and prominent Orange county real estate man, recalled today a pleasant talk he and Mrs. Rousseau, now on a Mexican tour, had at the Grand Canyon in 1919 with Albert, king of the Belgians, whom the world now mourns.

King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and party were seeing the Grand Canyon on their American tour and Mr. and Mrs. Rousseau happened to be there at the same time, en route home from a world trip. Governor Hunt of Arizona, who was endeavoring to make it as pleasant as possible for the royal visitors, heard that the Rousseaus talked French fluently, and asked them to "help out" in entertaining the king and his party.

Mrs. Rousseau talked in French with King Albert for about 15 minutes, although the king spoke English also to some extent. The king seemed to be the most democratic man in the whole party, Rousseau said in relating the incident.

Beach P. T. A. to Hold Card Party

MIDWAY CITY, Feb. 22.—A benefit card party will be given by the Huntington Beach Union High School Parent-Teacher association Friday evening. It was announced by Mrs. Pearl Hill, president of the organization. Ten hostesses will participate in the event and later in the evening each hostess and her group will meet at the high school cafeteria where prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

Hostesses outside of the city of Huntington Beach include Mrs. J. H. Pryor, Mrs. Dale Dunstan and Mrs. Neal of Midway City; Mrs. W. P. Treese of Wintersburg; and Mrs. Albert Ruoff of Springdale.

AUXILIARY OF LAGUNA BEACH HOLDS PROGRAM

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 22.—Laguna Beach civic leaders were invited by the American Legion auxiliary, through the president, Mrs. Augusta Benson, to participate in the Americanization program held in observance of the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. Among those escorted to the platform were Capt. Don Wilkie, Father May Handy, president of the Woman's Relief corps; Hazel Downing, orator of the Royal Neighbors; Hilda Mackey and Ruth Joulon-Roche, Girl Scout troop leaders; Robert N. Bowen, Scoutmaster of troop No. 10; the Rev. Raymond I. Brahams and Mrs. Nellie Hawley.

The program was in charge of the Americanization chairman, Julia Hayward, and was as follows: Piano duet, Betty Hayward and Patsy Leahy; reading, "Our Flag," Osla Moen; a talk on the history of the flag and the flag code, Robert N. Bowen; a brief sketch of President Lincoln, the Rev. R. I. Brahams; piano duet, with violin obligato by Mary Bell, Hazel Moen and Ruth Benson; presentation of Girl Scouts by Hilda Mackey, followed by a short sketch by the Scouts court of honor and presentation of merit badges; talk by Capt. Don Wilkie.

Assisting Mrs. Hayward in the serving of refreshments were Augusta Benson, Clara Bell Warman and Sophie Wilson.

At a business meeting preceding the program, Jean Bell, poppy chairman, reported that pupils of the seventh and eighth grades are working on posters for the annual contest. The auxiliary voted to buy 1100 poppies this year from the disabled veterans. Clara Warman, co-operative sales chairman, reported $6.50 worth of D. A. V. articles had been sold.

Tom drove like a man demented through the tunnel, and now he was on the streets of the city. There was only one thought in his mind and that was to get to Gypsy quickly, to set her right on the events of the past ten days. He knew her mercurial temperament well enough by this time to be fairly certain she had left her father's house that morning in a mood of complete desperation.

"What she might do, I can't think," he said to himself and drove the faster for the black shadow that clattered, unadmitted, at the door of his mind.

Without plan, without copious thought he drew up at the entrance to the apartment where Tom Gibson lived. He had been there just once, to see a pipe collector of Hunt's. He remembered with shame the last time he and Gibson had met. He had behaved like a churl but this was no time to stand back because of false pride. He would ask Hunt, simply and humbly, if he had any least idea where Gypsy might be.

Hunt was in. He wore a rather constrained air as Tom presented himself at the door. Tom made haste to state his case. The other man shook his head. He didn't know a thing, he said. Sue might, I Tom would step inside he would telephone her....

Tom lifted his brows when Hunt called Sue "darling" but he was relieved, just the same. Hunt said, "No, I don't think he's tried that." He put his hand over his mouthpiece. "She says, 'Have you thought of Wading Hollow?'"

Tom struck his palm into his hand. "What a consummate fool I am!" Gypsy had said she loved the cabin above all places. It might be that she had sought it out in her wild flight.

Hunt said, "Wait a second and I'll come along." His lean, brown face was eager. "The Bliss story has quieted down," he said as he got into the car. "I wonder if Gypsy could possibly have worried about that. I hope not. I understand Broughton has hushed the whole thing up." Hunt had, he continued, a lot of things he wanted to talk to Tom about on the way down. He and Sue were going to be married in the fall.

Tom scarcely heard. He was driving like wild, now, out on the open road. His one thought was to get to Gypsy quickly.

The program was in charge of the Americanization chairman, Julia Hayward, and was as follows: Piano duet, Betty Hayward and Patsy Leahy; reading, "Our Flag," Osla Moen; a talk on the history of the flag and the flag code, Robert N. Bowen; a brief sketch of President Lincoln, the Rev. R. I. Brahams; piano duet, with violin obligato by Mary Bell, Hazel Moen and Ruth Benson; presentation of Girl Scouts by Hilda Mackey, followed by a short sketch by the Scouts court of honor and presentation of merit badges; talk by Capt. Don Wilkie.

Assisting Mrs. Hayward in the serving of refreshments were Augusta Benson, Clara Bell Warman and Sophie Wilson.

At a business meeting preceding the program, Jean Bell, poppy chairman, reported that pupils of the seventh and eighth grades are working on posters for the annual contest. The auxiliary voted to buy 1100 poppies this year from the disabled veterans. Clara Warman, co-operative sales chairman, reported $6.50 worth of D. A. V. articles had been sold.

Tom drove like a man demented through the tunnel, and now he was on the streets of the city. There was only one thought in his mind and that was to get to Gypsy quickly, to set her right on the events of the past ten days. He knew her mercurial temperament well enough by this time to be fairly certain she had left her father's house that morning in a mood of complete desperation.

"What she might do, I can't think," he said to himself and drove the faster for the black shadow that clattered, unadmitted, at the door of his mind.

Without plan, without copious thought he drew up at the entrance to the apartment where Tom Gibson lived. He had been there just once, to see a pipe collector of Hunt's. He remembered with shame the last time he and Gibson had met. He had behaved like a churl but this was no time to stand back because of false pride. He would ask Hunt, simply and humbly, if he had any least idea where Gypsy might be.

Hunt was in. He wore a rather constrained air as Tom presented himself at the door. Tom made haste to state his case. The other man shook his head. He didn't know a thing, he said. Sue might, I Tom would step inside he would telephone her....

Tom lifted his brows when Hunt called Sue "darling" but he was relieved, just the same. Hunt said, "No, I don't think he's tried that." He put his hand over his mouthpiece. "She says, 'Have you thought of Wading Hollow?'"

Tom struck his palm into his hand. "What a consummate fool I am!" Gypsy had said she loved the cabin above all places. It might be that she had sought it out in her wild flight.

Hunt said, "Wait a second and I'll come along." His lean, brown face was eager. "The Bliss story has quieted down," he said as he got into the car. "I wonder if Gypsy could possibly have worried about that. I hope not. I understand Broughton has hushed the whole thing up." Hunt had, he continued, a lot of things he wanted to talk to Tom about on the way down. He and Sue were going to be married in the fall.

Tom scarcely heard. He was driving like wild, now, out on the open road. His one thought was to get to Gypsy quickly.

THE TINYMILES

The tree toad had to laugh to see the Tines fretful as could be. "You do not like my noise," he cried. "Why, I think it's just grand."

"I plunk along the live-long day upon my big bass viol, and say, I never have to ask a single soul to lend a hand."

"Oh, I know why you don't tire out," the big toad heard wee Scouty shout. "The plunking isn't done alone with claws. You have a bow."

"When you push that, it's a relief. Your claws, thus, do not come to grief. If you don't stop your plunking for a while, we'll have to go."

TAKING the "MAGIC" OUT OF MAGICIANS

By Charles J. Carter World Famous Magician

THE western conjuror tells his audience, usually, that he is about to deceive them, professing contempt for the tactics of impostor. He is an entertainer par excellence, declaring that all he does is good-natured—sometimes instructive—humbug.

He knows that the fundamentals of all magic are the same everywhere, consisting of Appearance, Disappearance, Transformation and Substitution, varied in countless ingenious ways, as are the seven notes of the musical scale.

However mysterious the trick, however unaccountable, even terrifying, in its effects, the honest conjuror, like the Hebrew sage, knows that "there is nothing new under the sun," and that he and all his fellows prosper because they know how to make Dame Nature serve them in unexpected ways.

"The public be pleased," is his motto when he is straightforward; "be deceived," when he is a fanatic and a charlatan.

In my travels around the world I have met all kinds, and some of my experiences among them have been, if not "miraculous," extremely odd, and sometimes uncomfortable.

In the Islands of Hawaii the Magic-man is known as the "Kakooa"; he who may pray you to death.

IN Borneo are to be found the "fire dancers," men who walk and dance on fire; adepts sustained by fanaticism and copious draughts of homebrew—to say nothing of a generous anointing of their feet in cooling balsams dripped from native gum trees, immediately prior to each imposing ceremony.

These men toughen the soles of their feet by the use of diluted sulphurous (not sulphuric) acid, which they rub in several times a day, thus hardening the soles to a degree that they become insensible to heat.

At first it is necessary that the acid be highly diluted and that after each application the feet be treated with a strong solution of alum, evaporated until spongy. A further treatment with hard soap increases the margin of safety—so much so that I have seen red-hot irons applied to the feet of these fanatic wizards without their suffering the least pain!

In darkest Africa the Voodoo-man roams the lonely veldt by night, mingling his weird cry with that of the jackal, or with the roar of the lion, exulting after his nocturnal banquet of migratory zebra or docile, unsuspecting antelope.

In Basutu-land, or in Zulu-land, the native conjuror seeks the help of his ancestors who nightly haunt the lost mines of Zimbabwe,

"Carter the Great" tears away the veil of mystery from some of the Oriental sorcerers' best puzzlers where lie concealed the untold millions of that wisest of potentates, Solomon, whose glory rivalled the sun. And in Fiji is the cannibal sorcerer, who measures the length of an enemy's life by an isolated hair, torn in sleep from the scalp of a lime-encrusted, vermin-infested head.

AND what of China? How does it fare with the wonder-worker of the Celestial Kingdom: where nevertheless the power—and the Powers—of this world are so starkly in evidence? China, that first knew the magic of fireworks and gunpowder, perhaps of the compass and the printed word—what sorceries can she now contribute to the gaiety of nations?

Alas! China's great adepts are no more; magic has fallen upon evil days since her foremost exponent, Ching Ling Foo, passed to his eternal rest. None of her modern magicians measure up to the standard he set.

I met him for the last time in Tien-Tsin, where he had retired from all theatrical activities; during his last public appearance I saw him perform the bowl trick, which consists in the production of an immense bowl of water and fish under cover of a large—and apparently quite empty—tablecloth.

The bowl and its contents weighed 116 pounds and the trick was executed with such consummate skill and elegance as completely to mystify even those who knew the technique. In fact, the attention of the entire conjuring world was attracted to this masterful and adroit Oriental, whose secret was kept for many years.

But, as I have performed the same trick while presenting an imitation of his almost imitable work, I feel that the layman should know something of the way in which the peerless Ching Ling Foo accomplished it.

front! That was a measure of Chung's abilities.

Nevertheless, Chung Lung Soo failed to heed the warning contained in this accident: not long after he was fatally shot while trying to perform the trick of catching a marked bullet from a gun fired by a spectator on the stage of one of London's music halls.

It seems that the gun which was used had become, through neglect, clogged with unexploded powder, which had accumulated in a crevice that connected with the hidden repository of the real bullet.

This powder, in time, formed a quickmatch which, carrying the spark from the blank cartridge to the powder of the genuine bullet, promptly discharged it—thus sending to an untimely death, before a large audience of horrified spectators, Chung Lung Soo, a conjuror whose cleverness failed him at a critical moment, through lack of that supreme virtue of all magicians—vigilance.

To speak of magic without speaking of Egypt would be like trying to describe a vast country without mention of its capital city. For surely, in many ways Egypt is the Capital of Conjuring; the jugglers of East India pale into insignificance before the achievements of the adepts who wander through the Valley of the Kings, in and around Luxor, displaying their miracles to all and sundry.

LET us attend for a moment to the great Moussa, son of Sooliman, a veritable King of Wizards, who is reputed to have inherited from his father and his father's father the art of taming, charming and subduing the most vicious reptiles, and rendering them harmless—at least to himself.

It is even said that when Moussa cries out the names of his ancestors the snakes hear and understand. Certain it is that such of the reptile family as I saw around Moussa seemed to corroborate this reputation of the family of charmers: charming, I should say, to the reptile family only!

The vicious scorpion, who attacks without provocation; the cobra whose bite means certain death; the horned snake, equally venomous—all these Moussa invites to his feast of blood. They bite him and hold fast to his brown arm while he laughs.

In Borneo are the "fire dancers," men who walk and dance on fire. . . . But they first spend many days toughening the soles of their feet with acid, so that even a red-hot iron will not cause pain.

A STRANGE figure, this man Moussa! Somberly clad in a long, flowing black silk robe, wielding a necromantic rod of ebony, marching like a commander before his army, he ordered, and was obeyed.

Chanting now in Arabic, now in the language of "magic," he bade the asps and other venomous crawling things to come before the sun, the Eye of God, and they came; one by one, from a distance of a mile or more; long deserted roadways, from under slimy rocks, from cobwebbed holes amid the ruins of an ancient people.

Now Sheik Moussa, descendant of snake-charmers, Lord of Reptiles, shows the full extent of his mysterious "powers." Lean and alert in the hard Egyptian morning he bids the dreaded cobra to come forth from its nest of darkness, to raise its hooded head.

THE serpent hisses impotently while its master, in cajoling tones, insinuates his wishes, squatting directly in front of the fangs and the vindictive cunning eyes of this scourge of the East. Presently he stretches out a brown hand and he begins to caress the snake.

In a few moments the wily cobra, seemingly overpowered by secret forces, closes its eyes, becomes limp and as though dead. Then Moussa, with a careless gesture, tosses it upon the earth where it lies inert while he jumps about it, clapping his hands, even touching it, but apparently not awakening it from what seems a mesmeric sleep.

After the reptile has remained in this state of lethargy for a brief time, Moussa picks it up again, massages its neck and head, then throws it upon the ground rather violently, whereupon the cobra awakes, rears itself upon its tail, hissing a momentary challenge—only to squirm rapidly away across the hot sands while the sorcerer cries, "Go, thou thing of evil, who taught mankind to die; bask thou in the glory of Isis, for the seed of woman shall crush thy head and thou shalt lie in wait for his heel."

It became necessary for me, as a western thaumaturge for whom there are no "occult" secrets, to fathom the wiles of Moussa, son of Sooliman. I suspected him of fraud, and was eager to test certain theories which I had formed concerning his remarkable performance.

So, on a morning when I knew he was to perform this trick, I went out into the desert alone and hid myself close to the crannied rocks whence he was accustomed to call his serpents.

Presently there came Moussa and his assistants, bearing a huge sack; and from this sack Moussa took out a number of snakes and hid them in the rock crevices.

Later, when he issued his call, they came out—just as he had trained them to do!

Two photos showing an African conjuror eating a scorpion, that deadly poisonous rock-dweller of the desert. . . . What the audience never knows is that the conjuror has carefully removed the scorpion's sting just before eating the creature.

AS he appeared in court garb—a long, flowing skirt of the Mandarin type—it was not difficult for him to secrete under the skirt the large bowl containing two or three buckets of water. This was held in place by a web-harness, its top covered by a water-proof leather cap, held in place by tight cords.

By a skilful manipulation of the tablecloth and the skirt of his gown the magician so confused the spectator's attention that it was a simple matter for him to release the bowl, remove its cover—and presto! the miracle had happened.

The effect was so dramatic and impressive that many others attempted it—usually with dismal results, as the example of one of his imitators, Chung Lung Soo, will prove.

Chung Lung Soo made the mistake of being more clever than careful—a mistake which, as we shall see, later cost him his very life.

While performing in London he tried to reproduce his master's bowl trick; but, not knowing the full details of the mystery, he was punished by having the bowl fall to the stage prematurely, thereby spilling the entire contents over the orchestra, and some of the audience in

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The name of George Washington is revered and honored. His life is another evidence that men are peculiarly fitted or adapted to a great work, for which they may be called.

In naming the great leaders of our history, Washington is usually named first, followed by Lincoln. No two men could be more unlike in environment of life, training and personal characteristics, yet each fitted for the services publicly rendered.

If Abraham Lincoln was the "great commoner," Washington was the "great aristocrat." But he was ushered in as leader at an hour in history when that kind of leadership was needed to hold men to the faith that victory might come.

George Washington was one of the wealthy, if not the wealthiest man of his day. He seemed destined to rule, and yet he was undoubtedly endowed with a spirit of justice and common sense.

He wanted no kingdom but a democracy. He resigned his generalship and went back to his plantation.

He again put the danger of ambition from him when he refused the third term of the presidency. He set an example which has aided in preventing dictatorship.

He was a man of immovable purpose. His steadfast stand at Valley Forge is one instance among many which could be cited. He could not have carried on but for his personal wealth, paying his own expenses.

What would be his ideas today? He would be among the conservatives but would be against dictatorship.

It must be remembered that he belonged to the owning and employing class. He was a slave holder and did not seem to be impressed with it as an enormous evil. There is no question but that he would be just in his judgment.

Any way he would seek out of our present social difficulties would be in harmony with the status quo as far as possible and keeping sacred and secure private ownership and private profit.

In foreign relationships he would undoubtedly have been against any entangling alliances.

HAZARDS OF METROPOLITAN EXISTENCE EMPHASIZED

Stuart Chase, in one of his books, expanded on the complications of modern metropolitan existence. Several times he pointed out that if such and such a device should fail to function, or pipe should be broken, the inhabitants of the city would be in a hazardous predicament. His intention was not so much to plant fear in the minds of the readers, as to impress them with the highly developed technology of civilization in cities—where it has been developed to the highest point. His description inspired awe and perhaps a bit of skepticism.

But the news from New York city today more than bears out his prediction. For nature has "balled things up" in New York to a point where people are actually in danger. Heavy snows have stopped traffic so that people, dependent upon supplies coming into the area of New York, are at the point of suffering. One milk company sent a cargo of milk, by airplane from a Newark airport to Roosevelt Field, L. I., so that babies of that section could get their normal supply.

Man has complicated living by congregating in limited areas, but he doesn't realize it until something like this happens, to make him realize that if he were a bit closer to the supplies nature has for him, his life would run more smoothly.

ALL IN THE GAME

Many attempts have been made to improve on playing cards and add interest and novelty to the little pasteboards which in their standard make-up hold sufficient fascination. There have been round cards and picture cards and other varieties but it has been found that the novelties retard the speed of sorting and evaluating the cards and after a very brief trial the "new" has been discarded for the old.

An optometrist, however, has added impetus to whatever yearning there is for improvement of cards by saying that the diamonds and hearts, being red, make us fighting mad—the red rousing the pugnacious instinct. Dr. Miller, who expounds this theory, suggests blue as a substitute for the red as a means of eliminating the nervous reaction inspired by the red. It is too many red cards which does it he says.

There may be something in it but only an expert could discover the degree of difference in the excitement of the player who discovers he has thirteen hearts or diamonds rather than thirteen spades or clubs.

Anyhow there are too many changes in bridge without them changing the color of the cards on us yet. We'll keep a bit of ice-water handy to counteract the excitement of too many red cards. And with the ice-water handy we'll hope for many, many hearts, and the more brilliant red the better and we'll bear with the nervous reaction.

NAZI PREREQUISITE FOR UNIVERSITY TRAINING

President Lowell of Harvard objects to the child labor amendment which is coming before the people of Massachusetts for a vote because it will sanction the government to interfere where he thinks it should not. Over in Germany they don't mind interfering with personal liberty and the government and are going to extremes which are as disagreeable on the one hand as President Lowell's position is on the other.

According to a recent ruling by the Nazis

all boys and girls who desire to enter German universities must serve at least six months in the Nazi labor camps—toiling at hard labor. The idea is to make the youngsters more appreciative of the opportunity which is theirs in the universities. At the university they will be fitting themselves for emancipation from physical toil and surely it is a good idea for every individual to at least have some idea of what he is emancipated from.

Physical toil doesn't harm anyone who is not robbed of health and the opportunity for normal growth by the nature and hours of the labor and it sometimes clears the mind of strange hallucinations.

A NEW DISEASE

Dr. Alvan L. Barach, a New York psychiatrist, reports that there is a new form of mental disease afloat which afflicts rich people. He reported to the National Committee for Mental Hygiene that the ailment is born of depression. People afflicted with the disease have a guilty feeling about their money and seek to atone by spending less. If their income is cut twenty-five per cent, he says, they cut their expenditures fifty per cent. They do without their cars, dismiss their maids, etc. They say that it isn't right to spend money in such times. The effect of their economy, which they regard as virtuous conduct, is hard on the economic life of the nation. It is rationalized selfishness where it is not irrational miserliness.

If the attitude could be treated as a disease it would be easy to cure those who have it and thereby relieve those who suffer from it. For in this case the victims of the disease are not those who have it.

SUNLIGHT-OPERATED BEACONS

A new type of beacon for aviators and mariners has been installed on San Clemente, San Nicholas, Santa Barbara and Catalina Islands. These beacons, which can be seen for fifteen or twenty miles, operate without attendance. They turn on and off automatically, being operated by the sunlight—turning off when the sun peeps over the horizon and turning on when it sinks in the west.

News of the new beacons is a bit ambiguous since it says they operate by sunlight and one can't imagine there is need for them to be in operation when there is sunlight. But apparently, since they are very wonderful and useful they operate in reverse—not being alight when the sun is shedding its beams and lighting up when the sunlight fades out. Anyhow they are something to think about. In the future there will be no more lonely lighthouse keepers.

Maine Memorial

So many events have occurred since 1898—with a world being made over politically and economically—that the sinking of the battleship Maine seems as ancient history. Those who were old enough to vote, when the news came, are now well beyond the half century mark.

It was a long time ago, in many ways, but the memory of the sailors who were blown suddenly into eternity remains alive. Today Oakland conducts memorial services for those boys. Men who fought in the Spanish-American War will march to Lakeside Park, where a Consul of Cuba and representatives of the various organizations of veterans will take part in the observance. Patriotic exercises will follow at the Veterans' Memorial building.

Two hundred and sixty-six men perished in the blowing up of the Maine. A war followed and Cuba became free. It was a war fought in the days when our middle-aged were young, one which called for armed penetration of treacherous wilderness, and a splendid demonstration of naval strength and strategy. It is fitting that a large number of astay citizens be present today when honors are paid to the memories of brave American sailors of thirty-six years ago.

Granada Honors Irving

At Granada, ancient Moorish capital, more than three thousand persons recently took part in a fiesta to honor an American, Washington Irving who wrote "Tales of the Alhambra" and, of course, many other books.

A correspondent writes that Spain is keeping the memory of Washington Irving greener than is his own country.

In contrast to conditions as Irving found them, the thoroughfares of Granada today are paved and clean, and there is a prosperous appearance about everything in this provincial Spanish capital of more than 100,000 inhabitants. Streets are crowded and there are many automobiles, mostly of American make, and some fine new buildings and modern shops—all lending a Madrid-like atmosphere unfamiliar in most cities of southern Spain.

Profitable Prodigy

Little Ruth Slenczynski, the child prodigy pianist, is reported to have signed a $75,000 contract for the coming season. She has been the center of much discussion concerning the permanence of the talent of prodigies, the general conclusion being that sometimes it lasts and sometimes it doesn't.

In little Ruth's case, however, if she can keep going at this rate for a few seasons, she need not worry about the lasting quality of her art and the probability of its enhancement.

For it to peter out would be a loss to music, of course. But Ruth will have made pretty fair provision for the future, always providing, of course, that her dollars hold up to the 60 cent level.

A King Dies

King Albert is dead, the victim of his own daring in a lonely, dangerous place, and the mourning for him reaches far beyond the borders of his little kingdom. His fame will be not merely that he was king-like in the garb of a workman in Belgium factories. He was king-like when he risked his life—risked it without show or pretense—in leading Belgium's desperate stand against the Imperial German army. And he was king-like in his last venture—laying aside his honors as a king to go out, alone, in a test of his powers as a man.

King Albert had those great qualities which become a king better than his crown.

More Truth Than Poetry

NO HELP

It is now held that there is no diet which will improve brain power.

When I noticed that numbers of men whom I know were quicker at thinking than I And could figure out things in a second or two, I did not despondently sigh. But said to myself: "It is something they eat Or possibly something they drink. Which enables these lads whom I frequently meet To sit by the hour and think."

For a time I subsisted upon bran. Which, I heard, was productive of thought. Then I padded with spinach the innermost man. But that didn't help as it ought. I tried every sort of medicinal food. To be found in the grocery store. Concoctions that startled my stomach I brewed. But my wits were as thick as before.

Of a diet of fish for a time I partook. Though I ought to have known at the start That a fish spends his life in a river or brook And therefore can't be very smart. Still phosphorus figures in building the mind. And I once heard a scientist say That the world would be wiser if all human kind Partook of it, day after day.

But I still am obtuse, and if asked by the young How to strengthen the old cerebrum, I always shall have on the tip of my tongue This garbled quotation to tell 'em: "In my youth," Father William replied to his son. "I feared eating might injure the brain. But now I am perfectly sure I have none. Why I do it again and again?"

PARAGRAPHS

One thing that keeps the homicide rate down is the fact that doctors don't tell all they know.

Among those who have signed up to make voluntary reduction of the cotton crop are Mr. Boll Weevil.

Freedom is safe so long as a head man who wishes to be a dictator must ask permission.

The chief difference we notice is that old-fashioned Winters got here before Spring.

Formula for peace: First, don't believe in fighting; second, don't be hateful enough to make others yearn to fight.

IT TAKES A LOT OF CONCEIT, THOUGH TO LOOK DOWN ON A $5000-A-WEEK FILM STAR BECAUSE SHE'S DUMB.

The ideal neighbor is like a good tooth. You would miss it, but nothing happens to remind you it is there.

You needn't envy the doctor. Think of dealing with people who would have no use for you if they were wise.

He can change his name to make people think him a native American, but his knack of owning the country gives him away.

AMERICANISM: Stripping taxpayers to get money for the unfortunate; using the money to build political fences.

There's one consolation. If we have a war with Japan, no patriot will soft-pedal in order to hold the Jap vote.

An author says the three words that cause the most joy, if true, are "I love you." What about "Fair and warmer?"

"Congress loyal to President."—Headline. So a loyal wife is one who says: "The darned car won't start; you may have the wheel."

You can always tell an American. He is keeping step with the crowd marching behind a slogan.

And Shakespeare might have added that the quality of humor is not strained.

Hitler says propaganda can make black seem white. Especially if it is trying to line up the colored vote.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "I GOT THIS RUG DIRTY CHEAP," SAID THE HOUSEWIFE, "BECAUSE THE PEDDLER SMUGGLED IT IN FROM ARABIA."

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WORK 'EM, FEED 'EM OR FIGHT 'EM

The great Spanish philosopher, Miguel de Unamuno, once wrote that when he wanted to drink at the well springs of living wisdom he left the sophisticated atmosphere of the University of Salamanca and went into the hills for communion with the shepherds.

The most incisive comment on the affairs of our time sometimes comes from the lips of the unlettered. A few days ago I talked at length with the watchman on the observation car of an east-bound train. He was unschooled but rich in native sense. He knew none of the patter of the professional economists, but he cut refreshingly through the thousand and one veiled ideas that blur so much of our thinking and summed up the current situation in a vivid formula that he may not himself have coined but which was in key with the sort of comment he had been making for an hour or more.

"I am not a communist," he said. "I am an old-fashioned American. I have not been out of work for a single day in 32 years. I own some property. I don't want to see us in the sort of trouble they've been having in Europe. But, as I see it, if we want to keep away from that sort of trouble we've got to settle this business of unemployment. And there's just three things we can do with the unemployed—work 'em, feed 'em, or fight 'em. It's too expensive to feed 'em. It's too dangerous to fight 'em. And with all the machinery we're getting, the only way we can work 'em is to go to shorter hours and better wages. When we do that, business will hum. We won't have to worry about buying power. And nobody will begrudge the business man the money he makes. And we'll have none of the trouble they're having in Europe."

This is not, in my judgment, the over-simplification of an unlettered man. It is unspoiled wisdom cutting through a mass of traditional thinking and getting to the heart of reality.

When all is said and done, the Roosevelt program will stand or fall, not on this or that emergency measure, for making work, but upon its success or failure in effecting throughout American business and industry readjustments of hours and wages that will give to men and women everywhere the work and the wages which will make them contented and capable consumers of the output of our factories and farms.

Every excursion into planning must finally come back to this single point. The watchman was awake!

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Girls in their early teens feel themselves ready to enter the grownup world and share the activities of their elders. Especially the pleasure activities. They want to go to dances, wear full evening dress, receive the respectful attentions of devoted young men of seventeen or under, and in short, be full fledged young ladies. This can't be done.

It is useless to fly in the face of facts. Girls have a period of girlhood. After childhood and before post adolescence, in the in between stages, girls are girls not women. They are given this time to perfect their growth. When they try to rush this growth and be what they are not and cannot be, they blight their own development. They do to themselves about what an over anxious gardener does when he tries to help a rosebud open ahead of time. Nobody gets any pleasure out of that sort of thing and the flower is killed in the process.

Girls ought to be glad they are girls and get all the fun possible out of it. Their turn is coming fast. Instead of going in for ballroom dancing they ought to be doing interpretative dancing. They ought to be going along with the campfire girls, hiking, climbing, camping and swimming. They need to be building their bodies so they will be beautiful in their health and buoyancy. There is nothing lovely, as I have hinted, in forced growth. To the experienced eye it is tragically ugly.

High school girls need to play with the boys of course. But why not in moderation? Why pick on one boy and rush him to boredom? Why not spread out a little and so get a better and truer view of the whole matter? Variety is not only the spice of life, it is also substance. Nibbles of anything, work or play or experiment, are no fair sample of the genus. Know the whole crowd, play with a group, hold fast to the best when the best has been proven.

That is where girls are likely to part company with their elders. Their elders want them to take time to prove things and the girls are impatient to swallow all the experience that come, in no matter what form, whole and without salt. Why not take life in a more leisurely fashion? Why not grow according to the scheme nature laid down in the beginning? It would be well for the girls if they did so.

Nobody can keep your own growth from you. Not even yourself. You can mar it badly by rushing it. You can be that awful spectacle, a girl-woman, aping the ways of the worn coquette, hiring your own fresh color or behind the clownish paint, warping your charms of girlhood in a vain effort to be an experienced woman of the world. You can hinder yourself but you can neither hurry nor delay your arrival at womanhood's estate.

Then be what you are, a girl. That is what you are anyway and it is a lovely thing to be. Be a real one—with health in your body, with health in your mind, with a song of joy on your lips, the light of faith in your eye. Maturity is coming. Play while you can.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

FEBRUARY 22, 1920

Y. M. C. A. work in Santa Ana was to be extended following plans made the previous evening at a dinner meeting in the James cafe, of executive committee members of Orange County Y. M. C. A. and representatives from the Men's Brotherhood of different Santa Ana churches. There was a combined request from local men attending, that the County Y. arrange to assign a secretary to leadership in this city.

While the Santa Ana churches all observed Washington's birthday in their services for the day, that of the First Presbyterian church in the evening hours was a general one in accordance with a nation-wide plan to honor the hero dead of the World War. Certificates of appreciation from France to the next kin of twelve of these heroes were presented at the close of special memorial services.
